SERVANTS SEVER BONDS WITH ORGANIZED LABOR

Political Action Reason for Move

The 1,800-member Victoria branch of the B.C. Government Employees' Association has finally broken its ties with organized labor over the issue of political action.

Formal action to end its affiliation with Victoria Labor Council was taken last night by labor delegates at the request of the local BCGEA branch.

REASON FOR BREAK

The reason given for the break was the Nov. 2 decision by VLC delegates to form a political action group to assist labor candidates in the forthcoming civic elections and in the federal byelection in Esquimalt-Saanich.

Civil servants' local membership approved a resolution which said "in our opinion (this) commits Victoria Labor Council to direct political action, which is against our constitution, therefore this branch should disaffiliate."

EXTREME RELUCTANCE

An accompanying letter, signed by branch secretary J. A. Hawes said: "It is with extreme reluctance that we take this action."

VLC secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone told delegates "it would appear the local BCGEA branch executive more or less had made their minds up on this matter . . . they didn't wish to have a delegate or officer of this council discuss the situation with them before final action was taken."

EVERYTHING IN POWER

He said BCGEA delegates to the local council did everything in their power to maintain the tie with organized labor.

One former BCGEA delegate said in a letter read last night he regretted the loss of "what we consider was a very valuable and rewarding association."

Recently, after the government stopped check-off of BCGEA dues from the payroll, the association's provincial officials requested temporary suspension of per capita dues to the labor group until a vote was taken among the membership.

Shun Politics Or Risk Job —Lindsay

By PETER BRUTON

A senior provincial civil servant startled a cabinet luncheon honoring himself and his colleagues yesterday with a blunt warning that government employees were risking their jobs if they didn't steer clear of politics.

George Lindsay, B.C. superintendent of motor vehicles, used the recent U.S. and Quebec provincial elections as examples of what could happen here.

50-60 PER CENT

"The so-called civil service of those governments, and there are others, had entertained the propositions of the body politic," he said. "On the defeat of their party there were over 50 to 60 per cent discharged from the service."

He asked his colleagues to warn their "juniors" that the advantage of B.C.'s civil servants were great compared with what others were receiving elsewhere.

NOT FOR MOMENT

"Let us not for one moment give consideration to other than our loyalty to the government which I believe is just at all times," he said.

Mr. Lindsay made his remarks during a speech of thanks to Premier Bennett and the cabinet for tendering a luncheon to 30 civil servants from Vancouver Island who had served the government for more than 25 years.

IN JEOPARDY

Mr. Lindsay said after comparing what B.C. civil servants receive in benefits from the government "and what little" other government employees elsewhere in North America receive he was concerned that "we in the civil service are placing ourselves in jeopardy."

There was a danger that they would lose the recognition and advantages won over a number of years, he said.

FUTURE BRIGHT

B.C. civil servants will vote shortly to decide if they will continue to remain affiliated with the B.C. Federation of Labor which in turn is affiliating with the CCF.

Mr. Lindsay said the future of B.C. was bright and that he hoped "each of you will make this proposition clear to your juniors."

These are the kind of stately timbers which skirt Kennedy River and the west coast road to Tofino, and which only an immediate public outcry can save from the loggers' power saws.

This scarred Kennedy River shoreline is what will be seen all along the west coast road to Tofino, unless something is done to stop the march of the loggers' power saws on the narrow strips of timber between the river and the road.

Loggers Rush To Ruin Drive

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Outdoors Editor

It is too late to save all the timber that stands in narrow strips along the Kennedy River on the west coast road from Tofino.

The loggers have felled a lot of it in recent weeks and appear to be chopping away at it in mad haste before the public and government realize one of North America's greatest potential scenic drives is being ruined.

But, there is still time to save some of it.

OUTCRY NEEDED

The loggers' power saws have felled much of the timber along the roadside and river banks, but there is still some left and only a public outcry . . . and a very early one at that . . . can save the rest of the stately timber, as the logging companies are pushing relentlessly on.

It is true MacMillan and Bloedel owns the timber through timber licences and that the Crown owns the land, but surely some exchanges or arrangements can be made to save these narrow strips of timber along the river banks which add so much to the scenic west coast drive. Not too much actual timber is involved.

* * *

Only Outcry Can Save It

* * *

For 23 miles the west coast road follows the Taylor and Upper Kennedy Rivers, sometimes 100 yards from it, sometimes 50 yards and sometimes only a stone's throw away. The road was, and still is, in parts, skirted by stately cedars, the like of which the public now seldom has an opportunity to see. It is like a narrow Cathedral Grove for miles and miles.

UNPARALLELED

The scenic quality of the drive surely is unparalleled on this continent . . . and it is being spoiled, largely because of the inaction of the government, specifically Forests Minister Ray Williston and Recreation Minister Earle Westwood, to take some action to preserve the roadside timber strips.

They were warned by this paper, and personally by others. Recently Premier Bennett called on Ottawa for a joint five-year program to blacktop the west coast road. At the same time as he was proposing this wonderful program, two of his ministers were allowing the scenic value of the road to be despoiled.

TERRIFIC VISTAS

On July 3 an article in this paper read, in part: "The road gives terrific vistas of all four arms of Sproat Lake and follows Taylor and Kennedy Rivers for miles. Tall, stately cedars and Douglas firs straddle the road and maples hang over the river banks.

"There are waterfalls, clear deep green pools right beside the road, and fast-running rapids. It was obvious to us that the government must try to acquire all the strips of land between the roadway and the rivers. These for the most part are narrow, but would provide an almost unbroken chain of scenic spots."

It was heartrending to drive out over that road last Sunday and see the desecration had already started.

PARK RESERVE

The provincial recreation department already has a three-mile park reserve along the Upper Kennedy River, which skirts both sides of the road, but unfortunately lack of foresight saw logging operations take place along the road through this reserve, and much, although not all, of the scenic quality, apparent in the other areas, has already been destroyed in the parkland.

Our Sunday drive showed that in some areas the logging company is leaving a one or two-tree strip along the riverbank which preserves some beauty, but in other areas it was taking all the logs.

Nixon Wins California

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The certain margin by which Sen. John Kennedy won the U.S. presidency was slashed last night to 31 electoral votes when a surge of absentee ballots put Vice-president Nixon ahead in his native California.

Nixon, 35,270 votes behind when California began its count of more than 200,000 absentee ballots last weekend, went ahead by 13,160 with 20,000 left to count.

Question of who gets California's 32 electoral votes may not be settled until the results are officially certified Dec. 15.

Should Nixon hold California, Kennedy would be sure of getting only 300 of the 537 electoral votes. Majority needed for election is 269.

White Mob Runs Wild

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A mob of 5,000 persons, mostly teen-agers fired up by mothers and segregationist leaders, ran wild in downtown New Orleans yesterday. Police turned fire hoses on them and charged into them with motorcycles.

The demonstration was set off by the call of segregationists for a "civil disobedience" campaign against the integration of two formerly all-white elementary schools by four six-year-old Negro girls.

STINGING HOSES

After an hour of being drenched by the stinging hoses and dodging three-wheeled motorcycles, the mob broke up into knots of demonstrators who roamed about stoning buses and cars in which Negroes were riding.

Police seized more than 35 demonstrators and hauled them off to headquarters. They were immediately "paroled" and went back.

SCHOOLS EMPTIED

The deep-running feeling against integration almost emptied the two schools. A total of 21 white pupils attended the schools Wednesday. Normal white attendance totals 1,043.

Police had to pull down their guard from the schools to fight the mob a few blocks away. The mob, screaming and waving Confederate flags, marched on the school board

"Two, four, six, eight, we don't wanna integrate," the mob roared. Firemen broke out the hoses and a public address system warned the crowd to break up or be hosed down.

"TURN ON WATER"

"Turn on the water, turn on the water," ringleaders screamed, advancing on the truck. The firemen did.

"They've gone berserk," shouted a patrolman as he seized two teen-agers and searched them. "There's at least 5,000 of them."

Tree Crash Crumples Sailor's Car

A car was demolished against a tree beside Esquimalt Road early this morning and its lone unconscious occupant rushed to HMCS Naden Hospital by Esquimalt police.

The driver was identified as LS Majella Arsenault, HMCS Ste. Therese.

The 1958 Pontiac, which apparently skidded on wet pavement about 12.30 a.m., hurtled sideways against the trunk of large tree some 12 feet from the road.

It was crumpled like a wad of paper, with the passenger side of the car body wrapped around the tree.

Police had to force the driver's door open to remove the injured man from the cramped pocket of space that used to be the inside of a four-passenger car.

CLARK GABLE

Clark Gable Dies at 59

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Clark Gable, the "king" of Hollywood, died last night at the age of 59.

The strapping he-man with the big grin and big ears had been one of the greatest movie idols the world has ever known from the time he became a star in the early 1930s.

He suffered a heart attack Nov. 6 at his Encino home and was taken to hospital for an extended rest after emergency treatment. His wife Kay is expecting his first child early next year.

"Death was painless," Gable's doctors said. Mrs. Gable was with him when the last attack came at 11 p.m. See also Page 21.

Teller Stole to Meet Ailing Mother's Bills

HAMILTON, Ont. (UPI) — A tearful, 21-year-old former bank teller testified yesterday that she embezzled $7,750 from her bank to pay her mother's hospital bills.

The ex-teller, Darlene Burns, was remanded to jail for sentence for stealing the money from the Toronto-Dominion Bank over a three-year period.

Her mother, Mrs. Gordon Burns, who walks with the aid of two canes, also wept and had to be assisted from the courtroom.

Magistrate Walter Tuchtie remanded the woman after defence counsel John Sullivan pleaded: "Please temper justice with mercy."

Harry Crawford, manager of the bank branch, said Miss Burns confessed before auditors turned up the shortages.

A psychiatrist, Dr. Harvey Blair, testified that the young woman had been handling the family's finances since the age of 12 when she first started working, selling fruit.

Before the hearing Miss Burns had been free on $5,000 bail.

Dr. Blair said she had a "terrible fear" of being imprisoned.

Sharp, Expert Opinion Marks New Series

In Canadian Forum, a new feature which begins today on Page 5, The Daily Colonist presents a series of provocative articles highlighting problems, hopes and possible solutions in local, national or international matters.

Distinguished experts in a wide range of endeavors are included in Vancouver Island's cosmopolitan population. From this group a panel has been formed to contribute a weekly article on fields in which these distinguished residents are specialists.

Attack Starts on B.C. Sunday Jobs

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Lord's Day Alliance plans a probe into work on Sundays in business and industry.

Rev. H. T. Allen, head of the Alliance in B.C., says main targets will include pulp mills and pipeline companies going seven days a week.

Aim of the province-wide probe was to wipe out all unnecessary work on Sundays, if necessary through court action. A committee of labor, business and industrial officials was being formed to conduct the investigation.

"We'll seek ways to eliminate unnecessary work, possibly by recommending extra shifts be hired to get the work done during the week," said Mr. Allen.

The Lord's Day Act forbids all Sunday work except that needed for public protection or essential services.

Mr. Allen charged management resorts to a form of bribery in offering extra pay to workers to overcome their unwillingness to work Sundays.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Can the arms race be stopped? Perhaps. But the world's leaders will have to work hard and earnestly to soothe the quarrels between East and West, and slow down the accumulation of bombs and rockets.

If the diplomats fail, hundreds of millions of people may die in a nuclear war—a war that could be triggered by accident or deliberately launched by a small irresponsible nation that wanted to destroy its big neighbors.

Some observers think that cheap nuclear bombs and cheap missiles are just around the corner. There is good reason to hurry up the search for control of arms and the atom.

Twenty-two wise men—economists, psychologists, politicians, weapons experts and others—examined the subject of arms control recently. Their findings were published in the fall number of Daedalus, the journal of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

They represent a wide range of opinion. At one end are the people who hope only for a moderate easing of tension. At the other end are the advocates of a world without armies, and those who want the United States to show an example by starting to disarm on her own, without waiting for Russia.

Differ in Methods

They differ in aims and methods, but all of them—except Edward Teller, physicist and advisor to the Atomic Energy Commission—agree that we can get some measure of arms control, and that we must try.

The basis of the arms race is fear. What are the world's two super-powers afraid of? Jerome B. Wiesener, former staff director of the U.S. delegation to the Surprise Attack Conference, lists the chief fears as follows.

"On the side of the Soviet bloc:

"a. Concern about American bomber bases and missile bases surrounding the territory of the USSR (and) the dangers of so-called 'accidental' war occurring as a result of tensions in areas where there are extensive military forces.

"b. Fear of espionage. Much of the Soviet military security has been obtained by carefully guarding knowledge of the location and size of important USSR military targets . . .

"c. Concern about a rearmed, reunited Germany.

"d. . . Belief. That capitalistic states may deem military adventure necessary to support their economies.

"e. The fact that the Soviet Union, its allies and satellites are outnumbered in the United Nations and can not expect ever to get fair treatment."

On Western Side

"On the Western side:

"a. Fear that the large Soviet land armies could, and probably would, occupy Western Europe and . . . other areas if not "deterred" by the threat of atomic retaliation and by adequate conventional forces.

"b. Widespread acceptance of the view that the Soviet government is dedicated to the extermination of the Western way of life . . .

"c. Fear of the unknown . . . Many Western experts believe that it would be possible for a decisive missile force to be built up behind the Soviet security screen with little danger of detection. The fear of Soviet duplicity is so great among some Western experts that it is not possible to visualize a level of inspection which would actually alleviate this fear.

"d. A fear of military action by local Communist groups within countries such as France, Italy, Burma, India, etc., supported by aid from the Soviet Union."

"Some of these problems will disappear as progress is made in limiting military force," Mr. Wiesner says. 'Others will have to be dealt with explicitly in negotiations."

Says Herman Kahn, strategic analyst and military planner for the RAND corporation: "Aside from the ideological differences and the problem of security itself, there does not seem to be any objective quarrel between the United States and Russia that justifies the risks and costs that we subject each other to. The big thing that the Soviet Union and the United States have to fear from each other is fear itself."

That's one man's opinion. But it is an opinion that deserves thoughtful attention.

'Real A-G' Retires

Kiss on the cheek and a warm handshake was given Mrs. C. F. Farquharson by Premier Bennett yesterday as the government honored more than 30 senior civil servants who have spent 25 years in government service. Mrs. Farquharson, referred to as "the real attorney-general," is still on leave from her post as secretary to Attorney-General Bonner after a fall in her office.—(B.C. Government photo.)

Algeria

Voters Will Decide

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle announced yesterday that he will call a nationwide referendum to obtain a popular mandate for his plan to set up a near-independent Algerian republic. The vote is expected early next year.

The announcement of the referendum is expected to heighten tension in Algeria where the European population is so aroused that any development furthering de Gaulle's "Algerian Algeria" policy could touch off violence.

Meanwhile authorities in Algiers announced that nine prominent rightists have been expelled from Algeria.

Reports from Rabat said an undisclosed number of Soviet jet fighter planes are en route to Morocco as a Kremlin gift to King Mohammed V.

Foreign Military Spending Ordered Slashed by Ike

Spare Aid Programs Kennedy Adviser Pleads

(By CP and UPI)

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Here are main points of President Eisenhower's sweeping economy program aimed at saving $1,000,000,000 a year in overseas spending.

- "Place primary emphasis on financing goods and services of United States origin" in all economic and technical aid to other countries.
- Cut "by a very substantial amount" all military buying planned abroad in 1961.
- Military post exchanges and embassy commissaries ordered to stop buying foreign good except with personal permission of the defence secretary.
- All agencies directed to reduce the number of civilian dependents stationed with their officials in overseas posts.
- Make strong new efforts to win new tariff and trade concessions for American products shipped abroad.

Indonesia's tobacco production increased from 55,000 tons in 1950 to 78,000 in 1959.

WASHINGTON—The Eisenhower administration, after conferring with an aide of President-elect Kennedy, Wednesday announced new curbs on U.S. military and other government spending abroad to help plug the flow of American gold into overseas coffers.

At the same time, Canadian-born John Kenneth Galbraith, top economic adviser to Kennedy, told reporters the president-elect will resist all pressures to increase the official price of gold now pegged at $35 an ounce in U.S. funds.

Galbraith, a Harvard professor who helped the Democratic leader in his presidential campaigning, said that while a boost in the gold price may help Canadian and South African gold miners, it would not solve U.S. balance-of-payments difficulties.

What effect defence spending cuts may have on American purchases in Canada was not made clear. Pending at the moment is a deal whereby the U.S. would purchase CL-44 transport planes produced by Canadair Ltd. at Montreal, providing the Canadian government would buy American-made fighters.

However Galbraith warned against cutbacks in U.S. reserve overseas forces and foreign aid as economy measures.

Rather, he said, the nation should give "ever closer attention to the security we buy with scarce dollars."

He also said the nation should resist any attempt to consider foreign economic aid "as the outstanding candidate for economy in overseas expenditures." Such a policy, he said, would suggest sustaining military power "at the expense of efforts to aid the poor people of the poor lands."

Body Highly Selective In Getting Its Elements

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD

From a group of students comes this letter, and I humbly hope—although the odds are against me in limited space—that I can answer questions in such a way as to give them a sound understanding of viewpoint as well as a few crumbs of specific information.

* * *

"Dear Doctor: We are studying nutrients, vitamins and minerals, functions of food, etc. We are always told what too little of something will do, but never what too much of a certain element will do to the body. My question was: 'What effect does too much copper have on the body?'

"We are taught that we get sufficient copper from milk as it is pasteurized in copper equipment. What if one drinks a great deal of milk, or of a certain brand of beer, for example, advertised as brewed in copper kettles? How much copper can one consume without ill effects?—B.B."

* * *

These students can bring up the toughest questions! Not that I blame them for an instant.

However, to get down to cases, we need traces of quite a few elements: iron, copper, calcium sodium, potassium, phosphorus, manganese, iodine, cobalt (not the radioactive type of course), and others. We need large amounts of some—oxygen, carbon, hydrogen etc. A good deal of the hydrogen and oxygen, for example, will be in the form of water.

VERY GENERAL

In general—and I mean very general—we get what we need from whatever is available to eat. Maybe it's the other way around: We learned, as creatures, over thousands of years, to survive on what we could get. The Eskimo eats seal meat; the Oriental eats green vegetables and rice; the tropical native gets lots of fruit. The western cowboy ate beans, tomatoes, beef; the fisherman, mechanic, salesman, farmer, seaman, druggist and (such a thought) the doctor in Ceylon or Vancouver or Albany seemed to get along pretty will on whatever was handy and edible in the place where he lived.

SO INTRICATE

What's the answer? Why, the human system, so chemically intricate that we understand only parts of it, knows how to capture the atom of this, the milligram of that, the ounce of the other, and use it. But to discard any excess. The body is remarkably selective.

As to the copper—well, we don't get our copper from pasteurizing our milk or brewing our beer (if any) in copper kettles. We get it in traces of copper sulphate, carbonate or nitrate in foods. The amount of copper picked up from a kettle is negligible and we don't depend on that.

Many and perhaps most necessary elements can be toxic if, by some distorted intake of drugs or chemicals, we absorb too much. But in natural foods, the processes of nature have not allowed too much of anything to be incorporated in plants, meats or milk. Of the slight variations, we have no fear.

Churchill Breaks Bone Ordered to Stay in Bed

LONDON (UPI)—Sir Winston Churchill, who will be 86 Nov. 30, fell at his home and broke a small bone in his back, his doctors announced yesterday.

A medical bulletin said the injury was "not serious" but that he would have to remain in bed "for a little while." It was understood he was suffering some discomfort and had been told to remain in a prone position.

Singed, Stolen $150 Cost Victoria Man $20

A man who, according to police testimony, bought $150 in slightly burned money for $20 in a beer parlor pleaded guilty yesterday in city police court to possessing money knowing it to have been stolen.

Barry Sharp, 550 Johnson, was remanded to Nov. 22 for sentence after Magistrate William Ostler agreed to his request for a probation report.

Police said it could be proved the money was stolen in a break-in at Household Finance Corporation. In the break-in, thieves cut into a heavy steel safe.

Two Vancouver men were sentenced in Colwood RCMP court yesterday to two-year prison terms for being in possession of house-breaking instruments.

George William Turner, 871 Granville, and Alfred Roy Dorn, alias Joseph Raymond Palmer, 977 West 7th Avenue, will serve their terms in the B.C. Penitentiary at New Westminster.

Cave Search Set for May, Area Closed

Tentative plans were laid last night to mount a new search in the spring for the mysterious cave on Survey Mountain.

Leaders of last weekend's search decided against any further expeditions until May.

Meanwhile, Sooke Lake Lumber Ltd., which owns the land, warned that the area is still closed to the general public, and sightseers will not be admitted.

Rate Boost Rail Goal

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's major railways will likely seek a new freight rate increase as soon as Ottawa lifts its 20-month freeze on rail revenues.

This was indicated Wednesday by CPR vice-president Ian Sinclair before the MacPherson royal commission on transportation.

HANGING FIRE

A bid for a 12-per-cent boost hanging fire before the board of transport commissioners was filed more than two years ago to raise revenues closer to permissive earnings.

Nothing has been done because Ottawa refuses any rate jumps until after the commission reports next spring.

The 12-per-cent bid is set on costs of early 1959. If the railways try to renew it, it would probably be higher to reflect rising costs.

Storm of protest from the 1958 rate boost of 17 per cent led to the commission. The increase was granted to meet the cost of a wage settlement with "non-op" workers.

Now, the "non-ops" are threatening a strike Dec. 3. Prime Minister Diefenbaker is calling railway presidents and union leaders to Ottawa in a bid to avert it.

A conciliation board proposed a three-step wage formula of 14 cents an hour. Unions accepted it, railways rejected it.

Alberta counsel J. J. Frawley clashed with Mr. Sinclair before the commission Wednesday.

"He can't pay his wages," said Mr. Frawley. "He tells the people of Canada, the government of Canada and the unions — 'we can't pay our wages.' Where is the money going to come from to pay their wages?"

Mr. Sinclair denied the CPR said it can't pay wages. It said a wage increase in view of all the circumstances and the freeze on rates did not enable the company to operate with selling prices frozen and costs increasing.

Seagull Exodus Means Storms on Great Lakes

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Seagulls—thousands of them—are flying inland over Hamilton in a strange exodus from the Great Lakes. Motorists described the feathery invasion as looking like a blizzard.

Old mariners say inland flights mean bad weather is on the way.

The Outsiders

IT is assumed on all sides that Senator Kennedy will be a strong U.S. president with positive views and the personality to enforce them. His chief aides will nevertheless have a big hand in shaping American foreign policy, and it is pertinent to note the thinking of one of his expected principal assistants.

Mr. Chester Bowles, for instance, who is mentioned as a possible secretary of state, seems to bank on an eventual rupture between Red China and Soviet Russia, with the latter coming gradually to the Western side. This is not a new theme among diplomats, the growing strength of China forcing a re-appraisal of the future balances of power, with the self-interest of Russia inducing the latter to come to more friendly terms with the West.

As Mr. Bowles sees it the U.S. task is to block Soviet economic and political dominance to the point where Russia realizes it has failed to weaken the West or gain ascendancy over the Asian-African blocs. Then, apparently, he expects that the Soviet Union will come to rational relations with the West.

This because the aggressive tendencies of Red China and its rival incursions among the smaller neutral nations will pose a problem to Russia, and in fact a warning. History is full of changing alliances and expedience makes strange bedfellows, and Mr. Bowles' long-term view could be right.

This perhaps presages a more amiable approach towards negotiations with Russia, an attitude reflected by Senator Kennedy during the presidential election campaign. It does not suggest any change of the American viewpoint towards Red China. There the hard line will still be taken.

Like others before him Mr. Bowles does not think Russia, unless by tragic miscalculation, will start another war. Few resporisible national leaders do, even if they cannot afford to bank solidly on such a premise. Russia has as much to lose as the West if nuclear conflict broke loose. Red China, however, speaks as though it alone could survive in strength a global outbreak, and sometimes in language suggesting it would not be averse to war,

One might think therefore that the greatest diplomatic aim should be to come to co-existence with Red China, whose potential power is sufficient to give all others the shivers. But even though the Chinese worry him more than the Russians this does not induce Mr. Bowles towards any easement with Red China. He would oppose any recognition of that nation, as has been American policy up to date. That means of course keeping it outside the pale of the UN or of international negotiation.

If that is to be the long-range foreign policy of the Kennedy administration world tensions will scarcely be reduced. The substitution of China for Russia as the chief threat to peace would make no basic alteration in the precarious state of world affairs. Better surely to admit Red China to the comity of nations and thereby seek to contain or moderate its aggressive tendencies, as is the case with Russian expansion itself.

Influence can be brought to bear on a fellow-member but not on an outsider. And as long as Red China is treated as an outsider there can be no hope of reducing its threat to the peace of the world.

Trouble-Seeking Pedestrians

CHRISTMAS is not so far away now, but unless there is marked improvement in the habits of pedestrains downtown, some of them may not be around to enjoy it.

An alderman had occasion to remark the other day on the prevalence of jaywalking; but jaywalking, risky as it is, is only one of the dangerous practices to be observed on streets where traffic is heavy. Far too many pedestrains, behaving in what they may believe to be a lawful manner in designated crosswalks, are in fact breaking the law and inviting injury to themselves.

At intersections pedestrians are accorded a high degree of protection, but they have obligations as well. One of these forbids placing drivers at a hopeless disadvantage by suddenly dashing into a crosswalk from the curbside.

Another is that they must obey the traffic lights. That requirement is so simple that one would think there could be no misunderstanding it. Yet hundreds of walkers seem to think it is perfectly all right to start into an intersection after the light has turned amber. Many do it even when the amber phase is so far advanced that the light is about to turn red.

Having thus established what they seem to think is a right of way, they amble the rest of the distance to the other side, with dirty looks for any motorists who dare to show impatience.

Motorists have been under some criticism lately for their actions at crosswalks when in fact the behavior of pedestrains is on the whole very much worse.

Difficulties and dangers of traffic will be magnified from now on, as the Christmas season advances. It is up to the police to pay as strict attention to the behavior of pedestrians as they do to that of drivers.

One National Day Is Enough

A QUEBEC Conservative MP is readying a private member's bill to give the country another public holiday, as though it did not have enough. There is scarcely a month now which doesn't have a special holiday of one kind or another, not to speak of annual vacation periods.

The proposal is not very seasonable either, the scheduled day being December 11, right amid the winter weather. Coming from a resident of Quebec, where snow and cold are customary at this time, the idea is all the more surprising.

This date is chosen because it is the anniversary of the passage in 1931 of the Statute of Westminster by which all strings on Canadian autonomy, grown largely theoretical by then, were eliminated. The sponsor would celebrate this as "Independence Day."

Actually the country can do quite well without another, confusing, national celebration of this import. Dominion Day, the July 1 fount of Canadian nationhood, covers the situation amply. There is no need to make a fetish of a legalistic transfer which merely confirmed the actuality of Canadian evolution. It is the day that the original provinces of the country created a nation that is significant and which was the turning point of Canadian history.

July 1 is the focal point of national unity, to which other dates in the progress of growth and development remain secondary,

Interpreting the News

Ticklish U.S. Position

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign Editor

CURRENT unrest in southeast Asia illustrates one of the ever-present, natural risks facing those responsible for U.S. foreign policy.

South Viet Nam President Ngo Dinh Diem apparently has weathered an army revolt against his iron-fisted regime. But the 3,000 paratroopers who rebelled and held the streets of Saigon temporarily, brought to the surface underlying unrest against his government which has been ardently supported by the United States.

In neighboring Laos, in which the United States also has a heavy stake, three factions battle for national control.

Between them, South Viet Nam and Laos have received in the neighborhood of $2,000,000,000 in U.S. aid. Their armies have been supported, supplied and paid by the United States.

A major risk facing U.S. policy planners is the danger of damnation by association.

Thus support of Ngo Dinh Diem for the sake of a fleeting stability in the face of militant world communism, might simply result later with his sins being visited upon the United States.

In Cuba, Fidel Castro rallies anti-U.S. support with the cry that it supported the dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista.

U.S. silence on the revolt in Algeria leads to the charge that it supports colonialism in Africa.

In South Viet Nam, for better or for worse, the United States is linked with Ngo Dinh Diem who is militantly anti-Communist and who, so far, appears to have the backing of most of the army.

On the grounds that the Communist threat requires it, Ngo Dinh Diem's is a one-man rule.

He made the national assembly a rubber stamp body. He restricted anti-Communist opposition parties and stamped heavily on press criticism.

A manifesto drawn up by a group of anti-Communist leaders six months ago charged that he had "only oppressed the people, not protected them from Communism."

This is the difficulty of the United States' position, coupled with another: that neither in South Viet Nam nor in Laos have anti-Communist factions been able to join forces against the Reds while at the same time setting up a government which most of the people can support.

"We didn't do so well either"

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

MANY an author turns in his grave, I daresay, when he sees what people do to his treasured words. Nothing is more precious to a writer, you see, great or small, than the precise wording of his sentences. They are his own particular product and if he coins what he thinks is a unique phrase he hates to see it messed about by careless repetition.

This is almost as deep an offence as having one's name mispelled, than which no graver sin, perhaps, is extant.

A reader in Cobble Hill, for instance, takes me to task—albeit in nice friendly tones—for misquoting part of the Canadian Legion's ritual when I used Laurence Binyon's line about the Fallen, to wit: the word "condemn" instead of "contemn." If I knew exactly how Binyon himself phrased it I could rest more content.

Poets have a habit of changing their own lines through faulty memory, you know—John McCrae was found out in this respect when quoting his vintage "Flanders Field"—and even of writing different versions of the same poem.

Burns was guilty of this, if guilt be the proper term to invoke, although probably because he passed along copies, and often the originals, of his poems to his friends as he wrote them, the printing of them not being the object of their creation.

Indeed an illustration of Burnsian misquotation came to mine ear the other night in the Royal Theatre when the Caledonia group — in as lovely a presentation of dance and song as one could hope to enjoy, a veritable poem of harmony and movement—sang "Scots Wha Hae" and rendered the closing line of stanza three as practically everyone does—"let him turn and flee."

It happens that in front of me as I write this is a photostat of the holograph manuscript of this song in the poet's hand and there the line has no "let him" in it at all. This could be a variation by Burns and not the Caledonia singers just as, I suppose, "condemn" or "contemn" could have been used alternatively by Laurence Binyon.

Anyway, as a matter of fact, I was unaware that these well-known lines of Binyon's were part of the Legion's ritual and actually I was not quoting him. What I did do was to paraphrase his sentiment in a sentence referring to a young and close friend of bygone days who comes fresh to mind each Nov. 11. This is a common practice among writers of all grades and when one uses well-known words, even in the re-phrasing of them, there is no danger of seeming to pinch them by presenting them as a new literary invention.

One sometimes turns a popular maxim or an old proverb by re-writing it, assuming one has the wit and that it is genuine. Churchill was a master at this business.

However my Cobble Hill reader may be right about Binyon's preference being "contemn" rather than "condemn." I wouldn't know for sure. But I notice now, having looked them up since receiving his letter, that Bartlett's Quotations transcribes the word as "condemn" and so does that other authoritative source the Oxford Book of English Verse.

None of which perhaps solves the matter satisfactorily, since eminent works of reference can go as badly astray as any chatting columnist. And the Legion, no doubt, will stick to "contemn" and why should it not.

Reports from Ottawa

UNEMPLOYMENT: an ugly, awkward name for an ugly, awkward situation. Three hundred and twenty-seven thousand persons reported to be out of work in September, and the figure growing daily towards a total that by March may be more than three-quarters of a million.

This is going to be the central theme, the principal preoccupation, of the MPs during the session of Parliament opening today. Prime Minister Diefenbaker has denied that he has called the MPs back to Ottawa specifically to deal with unemployment, but he will have difficulty guiding debate into other and politically safer channels. This is what Liberals and CCFers want to talk about: the government's alleged failure to produce any effective plan to cure the twin diseases of economic slippage and job shortage.

What happened to produce this situation in an economy that last spring was considered to have pulled out of the 1957-58 recession, and to be heading into a mild boom? Nobody has any authoritative answer. There is awareness that the confluence of a number of minus factors ruined the rosy economic expectations, but nobody has been able yet to apportion the blame for the prospect that one worker in nine will be jobless by spring.

In any all-out attack on unemployment—and this is what the government must launch, on pain of its political life—it seems elementary that first you must learn as much as you can about the causes of unemployment. For unemployment is a manifestation of more basic troubles that must be attacked concurrently with the human distress from lack of work and wages.

Factors contributing to the economic malaise and unemployment are assumed to include high production costs, tariff inadequacies, automation and other technological changes, investment timidity, changing foreign market patterns and competition, and taxation.

But how many of the 327,000 were laid off because of automation? Because of the competition of imports? Because of falling export sales? Because companies abandon or curtail capital investment programs? Because the government cut back housing?

There are as yet no answers to these questions. There should be.

The only place I have found any activity on this problem is in the research group of the Senate's special committee on manpower and employment.

This is the committee the Liberal majority in the Upper House voted into being late last session against the desires of the Conservative minority. The committee has not begun to work, but its research group of economists and statisticians is busy asking questions that will help the committee know the unemployment enemy.

A sample survey of those drawing unemployment insurance benefits is now being tabulated to determine who is actually out of work—and who is ill, pregnant, or over retirement age, and drawing benefits without any real intention of accepting work.

Secondly, 50 national organizations have been invited to come here and tell the committee about industrial unemployment by categories, skills and ages; the causes; the effect of automation, and what should be done to reduce unemployment and create more jobs.

But this committee of 32 senators won't have answers in time to do any good this winter.

Whence Comes the Money?

By GREGORY CLARK

WHERE is the money coming from to pay for all these motor cars that are swarming upon us? How does it happen that every Tom, Dick and Harry amongst us can afford a car?

Do we work harder than our fathers and grandfathers worked? Do we work longer hours than they did? Yet they couldn't afford motor cars. Indeed, most of them had to keep their noses to the grindstone in order to save the $18 a month they had to pay for house rent.

Where was all the money hidden in those days? Who had it? Why were they all so poor that only a handful among them could afford a carriage and pair, and the rest of them had to take the horse cars.

And how comes it now that money flows like water, and $3,000 is the cost of a low price car, not a man's life's savings. Where is the money coming from? To earn it, what are we doing that our grandparents didn't do?

What was the matter with our grandparents?

Crusty Argument

(From The Financial Post)

WHY can't we get good old-fashioned bread? Canada grows some of the best wheat in the world yet Canada makes some of the poorest bread. Certainly some "store" bread we've sampled is pretty unappetizing.

Apparently customers are refusing to buy "store" bread turned out by our large commercial bakeries and this, in turn, is hurting our farmers. This, at any rate, is the opinion of Joe Phelps, former president of Saskatchewan Farmers' Union.

In a letter to the Winnipeg Tribune, Phelps hits out at bakeries. "At a time when we farmers are looking frantically for markets all over the world, we have been letting a few baking companies ruin our home market. The per capita consumption of bread in Canada has deteriorated to the point where customers are refusing to buy it."

Bread is all a matter of preference which is determined by taste. Obviously our bakeries would not spend vast sums of money making bread which they could not sell. The majority of Canadian housewives buy "store" bread because they like it. Those who don't either bake it themselves or buy from small independent bake shops.

Phelps may have a good point, but it would be more constructive if he urged the farmer to aid the bakery industry, which is his biggest customer in Canada, in promoting the sale of bread. Perhaps he could induce customers to ask for that good, old-fashioned kind.

Kennedy's Policy

President's Power Is for Use

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WHAT kind of President Senator Kennedy will make is bound to be the subject of endless speculation. But one thing is certain: he will use the powers of the presidency to the fullest extent.

That alone will insure, despite all the obstacles in his way as he takes office with the narrowest possible mandate, an entirely different atmosphere in the capital and in the nation. He understands those powers and he will use them with the tough, deliberate shrewdness with which he conducted a difficult campaign.

This may not of itself end the stalemate of recent years that saw important domestic legislation repeatedly stymied when it was fairly clear that majorities for this legislation existed in both the Senate and the House. But such legislation—aid to education, medical care for the elderly under social security, a $1.25 minimum wage, the revival of depressed areas—will furnish the first test of the new president's executive ability. In his campaign he promised to send up proposed legislation covering several of his domestic proposals within 30 days.

One of the arguments made for Kennedy in the campaign was that he would bring into government a whole stable of able men with creative minds to help the country "move forward" both at home and abroad. A promise of this is seen in the group who will be his principal activators in foreign policy while the new president himself shapes the direction of that policy as he intends to do.

Kennedy has in mind several posts in the foreign field on which he puts great stress. He is expected to name a co-ordinator for economic aid to under-developed countries who would pull together into a coherent policy the widely separated and often random activities, with the twofold aim of raising living standards and preserving and enlarging the area of freedom.

During the campaign the president-elect talked about the need to strengthen and reinforce the North Atlantic Alliance. His permanent representative to NATO will have much greater stature and possibly cabinet rank. The ambassador to the United Nations, a post held by Henry Cabot Lodge, will have at least equal importance under Kennedy. A way is being sought to create still another post—perhaps an under secretary of state—to give new emphasis to Latin America.

The list from which these posts will be filled includes Chester Bowles, Adlai Stevenson, David Bruce, Averell Harriman and Eugene Black. One of these men is very likely to be Kennedy's secretary of state but which one even he himself may not yet have decided. Black, head of the World Bank and credited with economic statesmanship of a high order, has been recommended by his admirers. He would be an obvious and an ideal choice for economic co-ordinator if he could be persuaded to leave the bank.

It was only two days after the Democratic convention in Los Angeles last July that Kennedy called Clark Clifford. He wanted to ask Clifford, one of the ablest and most level-headed aides to former President Truman, to start studying the problems that would confront him if he were elected president. As Clifford recalls Kennedy's request it went like this:

"Clark, this may sound presumptuous. But if I should be elected president I know I will face some pretty hard decisions almost at once. And I want you to start looking into what I will have to do after January 20 and come up with some recommendations particularly for the interval after the election and before the inauguration."

Later the Brookings Institution urged a study of the interregnum, and Kennedy named Clifford as his representative. But the recommendations that Clifford himself has now sent to Kennedy go beyond the rather academic proposals contained in the Brookings report which will be submitted to the president-elect.

Clifford has recommended that Kennedy's director of the budget go to work immediately in co-operation with the Eisenhower administration so that he can learn the intricate details of his job before inauguration on January 20. As he pointed out, the new Kennedy budget will have to incorporate the New Frontier proposals. To do this at a time when a business downturn seems probable is going to be tough indeed.

The secretary of state-designate should also start in at once to hold daily conferences with Secretary of State Herter, Clifford recommended. Herter is anxious to co-operate. The new man might even have an office in the department and sit in on staff conferences.

But Clifford has also stressed that those who are to take over in state, the budget, treasury, defence and justice must be only observers until January 20. They cannot be responsible for decisions that have hung fire, such as whether to equip a NATO force with nuclear weapons.

Food Bank Part of Blueprint

Research, Aid Welds Nations

World's Route to Peace Is Over Farm Road

By DR. WILLIAM NEWTON

A small flame is burning in Rome called FAO which, if suitably fanned, may ignite a fire that will radiate sufficient heat to weld all the nations of the world into a single co-operative whole.

FAO, the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, was set up in Rome and is a group of agricultural experts drawn from the four corners of the world to study the critical world food shortage, the root cause of so many world tensions.

FAO has already shown that over half the people of the world are hungry, kept alive by a bare subsistence diet, and you don't have to be an agricultural expert to know that hungry animals or hungry people are likely to be cantankerous. The farm road to full stomachs, contentment, and international peace has been surveyed by FAO, but the flame of the enthusiasm of this group of experts must spread if this road is to be paved well enough to allow all people to reach adequate festive boards.

Food Bank

A world food bank has long been part of the farm road blueprint of FAO, but the food bank resolution sponsored by Canada at the UN in New York will serve as a much needed shot in the arm and will lead undoubtedly to more abundant food for those in the greatest need.

Some believe that the food bank concept is merely a means of getting rid of U.S. and Canadian wheat and other farm product surpluses in a manner that will not embarrass established markets — that is, bargain sales to nations who can afford to pay current world prices. This narrow concept is far from the blueprint plan.

Prevent Loss

The food bank is not unlike a money bank, for it is designed to prevent food loss and permit its easy and timely flow to where it is required, just as ordinary banks are designed to avoid money loss and to permit its easy flow to corporations and individuals as required. The food bank can even be said to be an outgrowth of the UN's financial World Bank to which Canada subscribes.

Tremendous savings can be effected by the creation of modern food storage facilities and the easy flow of food surpluses to temporarily deficient areas to avoid depreciation by storage.

Better Seed

Something more than a food storage, distribution and credit plan is envisaged by the creators of the food bank plan. They look forward to a substantial increase in world food production through the distribution of better seed.

At Bangkok in Thailand, FAO has established a rice breeding station to serve the rice producers of all parts of the world.

The late Dr. L. C. Coleman, my associate at Saanichton, was able to treble the agricultural production of the state of Mysore in India as director of agriculture there, largely through the introduction of better varieties and cultural practices.

Common Interest

The farm road to universal peace is based upon the common interest of practically every person in the world in the growth and behavior of plants and animals, an interest that is often latent but never absent. No factor is more important in fanning this interest to a universal flame than the establishment of biological research stations and schools and colleges that specialize in biological research and instruction throughout the world, particularly in those countries where they are absent or few and far between.

Already significant increases in food production have followed the establishment of agricultural research stations in India, Ceylon, Indonesia, Malaya, Burma—for it is through these research stations that the more advanced agricultural research of the West is quickly and easily disseminated.

I have seen bright young men return to India and Ceylon after advanced biological training in the West. On their return, they are invariably full of enthusiasm for they see at a glance what can be done to improve agricultural production in their native environment.

There is no substitute for milk in the nutrition of children, yet the per capita consumption of milk in most of the hungry countries is almost negligible. An increase in the supply of milk is already in sight.

New Breed

Sponsored by FAO, an attempt is being made in Australia to create a new breed of dairy animals, a breed that can withstand the intense heat of the tropics and a breed that is resistent to foot-and-mouth disease and other diseases that are rampant in warm countries. If successful, this project may do much to cement all countries into a co-operative whole for few can resist the cry of children for adequate food.

Canadian researches upon the preservation of milk in both powdered and liquid form also have improved the milk supply in tropical countries, for it is now possible to store milk for long periods in food banks without significant deterioration.

Co-operation

I am pleased that perhaps the most perfect example of universal co-operation is exemplified in rust research. Many nations, including the U.S.S.R., have capitalized upon our wheat rust research, and we have capitalized on Russian research, especially the brilliant researches on wheat of the late Dr. Vavilov.

If Canadian scientists develop a more productive soya bean or millet and trials prove that the new varieties are more productive than existing varieties in Red China, then we can cease to worry about a "Yellow Peril" for the Chinese are known to be a people who rarely forget a good turn, and with 800,000,000 people to feed a more productive major food plant would be a most acceptable gift.

Absurd Hints

Some people have hinted that the establishment of a chain of biological research institutions around the world might encourage biological warfare. Such hints are absurd. You might as well say that we should discontinue the training of medical officers for, as their knowledge of the prevention and cure of disease increases, they also become more capable of destroying life. History refutes this idea.

In sharp contrast with the association of the development of the physical sciences with destruction, culminating in the atomic bomb, the biological sciences have always been associated with the saving of life, plant, animal and human.

Suicide Club

Like most Canadians, I have no desire to be forced to take a trip in a sputnik or a trip to the moon in a lunik, and consequently I am interested in defence.

I am opposed to Canadian membership in the atomic suicide club for three very definite reasons. First, I agree with all biologists and top atomic scientists that there is no effective defence against atomic bombs and that an effective defence is not likely to appear in our time.

No Winners

My second reason is supported by practically all the leading scientists of the world, that no nation can win an atomic war, that such is suicide for all involved and may even end the human race.

The third and perhaps the most important reason is that Russia does not want to commit suicide and consequently is not likely to launch an atomic war. I base this assumption on the fact that the U.S.S.R. is training more scientists than Great Britain and the U.S. combined, and it is the scientists who appreciate to the full the suicidal nature of atomic war.

Biological War

If the Russians are out to dominate the world through armed might, as many believe, they will certainly stage a type of warfare that has some prospect of being successful, and this could be a biological war. Let us drop our membership in the suicide club and devote our hundreds of millions in the development of a defence against biological warfare.

I know that 8 ounces of botunin, a poison from a food contaminant, is sufficient to kill all the people of North America, but I also know that there are many other organisms capable of quickly destroying this poison.

Rust Protection

I know that there are wheat rusts capable of destroying the bulk of the wheat of North America, but I also know that our wheat crop can be protected by the development of a stockpile of rust-resistant varieties.

I also know that a virulent strain of foot-and-mouth disease could be developed that would kill all our farm animals but I also know that we have already been successful in the development of an immunization technique against many forms of this disease.

Happier Note

The same is true for all human diseases. A virulent form of polio could have been used as a war weapon had it not been for the successful immunization technique developed by Salk and his associates. Intensive biological research is a protection against biological warfare but research cannot create significant protection against atomic bombs.

To end on a happier note, I believe that a farm road to peace can be constructed for the world is sick of homicide, man's inhumanity to man. Biological research can unite all nations into a co-operative whole. Even the product of biological defence research is likely to be used eventually in paving the farm road to plenty for all.

CANADIAN FORUM

★ ★ ★

Canadian Forum each week on this page will present the opinions of outstanding men and women on local, national and international matters.

Launching the series this week is Dr. William Newton, retired director of plant pathology at the Dominion Experimental Farm.

Dr. Newton's researches brought Canada world-wide attention, and he was chosen as a member of the UN agricultural advisory board set up to help Ceylon increase its food production.

Despite formal retirement, Dr. Newton is continuing his research at the Bazan Bay laboratory.

From this background, his views on the desperate problem of widespread hunger throughout underdeveloped nations, and steps to alleviate the situation—including Canada's food bank plan—are of unusual interest.

Letters to the Editor

'Waste and Folly'

On Nov. 19 the ratepayers of School District 63 will again be requested to go to the polls to vote on the money bylaw which was twice defeated within the last 18 months.

Each time that this bylaw has been defeated it has been made abundantly clear that the ratepayers voted as they did, not because of an unwillingness to have their taxes increased, and not because they felt that existing schools provided sufficient accommodation, but because by withholding their approval they were protesting the manner in which this money would, in many cases, be wasted, and the inadequacies of our present school curriculum as a whole.

At a time when people all over British Columbia are tighening their belts and practicing economies in their homes, the school board is asking them to vote $784,000 for the following purposes:

1. $20,000 for a site for an addition to a school in Sidney, when they already own 10 acres across the road from the present school.

2. $50,000 for extensions to buildings and additional equipment at Mt. Newton High School, to be used for enlarging the home economics department. (This is the class that is at present teaching Grade 9 students how to make a sandwich.)

3. $368,000 for a secondary school to be built near Cordova Bay, a large portion of which sum will be used for the construction of another auditorium, where time that could be spent teaching the Three Rs will instead be wasted teaching students to climb ropes.

4. $25,200 for a one-room school annex at Saanichton, when a private individual can build and furnish a seven-room modern home for less. This is an area where school registration dropped over 10 per cent this year, and the existing building is more than adequate.

I hope that these examples of waste and folly will once more convince the ratepayers of School District 63 that, even though some students in this area are on the "shift system" this year (the necessity of which is gravely in doubt) they should again vote "No" to this bylaw, as such a vote will prove once and for all that they are sick of expensive "frills" and will certainly force the department of education to take a long look at their present system.

When older persons in this area expressed concern over their ability to meet the steadily rising taxes from their meager pensions, they were told by a speaker that this was a matter of concern for the welfare department, and not the concern of the department of education.

E. B. (TED) HAWKINS.

Tourists Aren't Soaks

Your editorial re the "narrow attitude" of the auto court and resort operators in complaining of the inroads made into their business by the free camping sites of the B.C. Government offers good advice to them.

In my opinion their loss of business has little to do with free campsites. At their convenience for some years they have persisted in demanding more liquor privileges and have too often attempted to have it appear that the tourist is nothing but a booze guzzler. I well recall one report which stated that "no American tourist is going to come here if he can't get a drink." The decent tourist certainly will not come here if it is understood that he is looked upon as a booze soak.

I have met many Americans both here and in the States and not one seemed to show any interest in booze. If they quit insulting their patrons, their business will pick up.

One-Track Thinking

Mr. Knudsen's letter deserves the widest possible publicity, for he has clearly and simply enunciated two principles which are not so widely understood and accepted as they should be: 1. A country, like an individual, is enriched by what it produces and what comes into it, not by what it parts with; 2. we only part with goods in order to acquire in exchange something else of more use to us.

Just as the sole function of industry is not to provide employment, but to provide wanted goods and services, so the sole function of exports is to acquire in exchange further goods and services which for various reasons cannot be economically produced at home.

With all due respect to Mr. Jeffs, it matters not whether the imports are all labor, like the services of a special doctor, or all material, like a California orange. It is the customer who decides whether to buy native or foreign products, and this is as it should be.

I might also point out that, since our chief export is surplus food in various forms, it is surely self-evident that the country could support a far larger population. It would appear that one-track thinking is not confined to Mr. McRae.

H. P. DEVENISH.

Atheists and Communism

Rev. Frank Morley in his column "The Voice of One," writes: "It (atheism) leads to materialism and—logically—to Communism."

However, according to the interesting articles by George Brimmell, the Hutterites are communists whose beliefs are based on Acts 2: 44-46. Are the Hutterite colonies, or communes, successful, from a materialistic standard, because the Hutterites are Christians or because they are communists? If Dr. Morley is correct in his assertion that atheism leads to communism how does he account for the fact that not only the Hutterites but other Christian sects as well are communists?

The fact is most of the humanist, rationalist and freethought magazines are opposed to communism. Communism may lead to atheism but it is unlikely that atheism will lead any informed intelligent person to communism.

Culture Projection

Time Gets a Tongue-Lashing

OTTAWA (CP)—Time Magazine's Canadian-based operation was told Wednesday with emphatic underlining that its interpretation of freedom of the press is not an acceptable foundation for basing a defence against charges of inequitable competition.

M. Grattan O'Leary, chairman of a publications royal commission which is considering the impact of foreign competition on native Canadian periodicals, also gave Time International of Canada Limited a tongue-lashing for claims that the Time-Life publications family plays an important role in projecting the cultural image of Canada abroad.

He described the claims as "gross overstatement," the kind of argument that did nothing to help the case being presented by the weekly news magazine.

★ ★ ★

An analysis of the Canadian content of the U.S. edition of Time for 1959 showed, in column inches, a year's total of 40.26 pages devoted to Canadian matters.

This, Mr. O'Leary said, compared with an estimated 2,600 pages of editorial matter carried in the year.

Most of the items listed—Canadian letters to the editor were included in the count—were incidental to Canada, Mr. O'Leary said, and very brief.

★ ★ ★

Mr. O'Leary said he wondered, for instance, why a review of a biography of Alexander Graham Bell which appeared in the Canadian edition did not appear in the U.S.

Mr. Laybourne said he didn't know, but there were "dozens and dozens" of possible reasons.

"In projecting the Canadian image," Mr. O'Leary asked, "wouldn't you think the review was more important than Genevieve breaking her leg in Toronto?"

Union Urges High Honor For Heroic B.C. Doctor

FAST RELIEF FOR ACHING MUSCLES

MINARD'S "KING OF PAIN" LINIMENT

The British Columbia government has passed on to London through diplomatic channels a union's recommendation for the highest civilian honor for a doctor who amputated the arm of a miner trapped underground and saved his life.

The recommendation for the George Medal by the independent Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union came after Dr. Barrie Flather performed the operation on a miner trapped in a shaft at Britannia several weeks ago.

Premier Bennett said Tuesday the recommendation was passed on through normal diplomatic channels with the government's support.

U.S. 'Giants' Control Sales

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian magazines striving for increased circulation through newsstand sales have but a "pious hope," Arnold Edinborough, editor of Saturday Night, said Wednesday.

He told the publications royal commission in a brief by Consolidated Press Ltd. — which publishes Saturday Night and Liberty — that newsstands in Canada are almost entirely in the hands of two major agencies with American control.

He identified the companies as the Curtis Distributing Co. and Select Magazines, and said:

TWO GIANTS

"These two giants control the newsstands by dictating to Canadian wholesalers the position of publications on dealers' racks, how often sales checks are to be made and by indicating what magazines should be offered in what location."

Mr. Edinborough said Canadian magazines seeking advertising run into an interlocking group of frustrations due precisely to the economic colonialism which they argue against so strongly.

"Unless some recommendations are arrived at by this commission which the government will implement without delay, the last few Canadian magazines will disappear. They cannot go on forever being paid for out of private and patriotic pockets."

QUESTION ABOUT COOKE

Ownership of Consolidated Press by Jack Kent Cooke, referred to in the brief, figured in questioning by commission member John George Johnston and commission chairman M. Grattan O'Leary.

Mr. Johnston asked: "Is Mr. Cooke living in Canada now?"

"He's in Toronto today," Mr. Edinborough replied.

He said Mr. Cooke is in the process of taking out American citizenship. But the important thing, he said, is that Mr. Cooke is willing to pour resources into magazines edited by Canadians for Canadians.

Sewer Laws Pass Council

Saanich council has given approval in principle to two draft bylaws totalling $1,200,000 for the construction of sewers in the Cadboro Bay and Shelbourne - Cedar Hill cross Road areas. Provincial government approval of the bylaws—$465,000 for trunk mains and $735,000 for laterals—is required before the vote Dec. 8.

Daly Quits TV Post In Policy Argument

NEW YORK (UPI) — John Charles Daly, vice-president of the American Broadcasting Co. in charge of news and special events, resigned Wednesday because of "differences of policy" with ABC.

Daly's disagreement was outlined in a statement to Leonard Goldenson, president of ABC-Paramount, the network's parent company.

OUTSIDE SHOWS

Daly differed with the network on its allowing outside packaging of documentary productions. It was announced earlier ABC would co-sponsor with Time, Inc., four one-hour documentary programs this season.

Daly wrote:

RELEASE ME

"I feel so strongly about these differences on policy and your apparent refusal or inability to support the principles I consider necessary to sound operation of a news department that I should like also and do hereby request that you further release me from any and all remaining obligations from my contract."

Daly will continue to appear on the CBS program What's My Line under a separate contract.

LONDON (Reuters) — The government's chief medical officer has reported an increase in sexual promiscuity and veneral disease among youth here.

Epidemic Sweeps Britain

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's worst outbreak of hoof and mouth disease for eight years caused destruction of 18,500 animals by Wednesday, a ministry of agriculture spokesman said.

Since the epidemic began 10 days ago 113 infected localities have been enclosed. In most of Scotland and the northern and eastern sides of England, including London, movements and sales of cattle are banned.

Only western and southern England, Wales and the northern tip of Scotland were free.

The agriculture ministry banned imports of pork and edible pork offal from South America from Feb. 1 because of "strong evidence" hoof and mouth virus was brought in with the meat.

Record 61 Areas Face Arbitration On School Wages

Fourteen B.C. school districts, including one on Vancouver Island, reached 1961 salary agreements in the conciliation period ended Tuesday.

This brings to 21 the total of settlements among the 82 school districts, leaving a record total of 61 to go to arbitration.

Greater Victoria, Sooke and Saanich school districts are among those where compulsory arbitration will fix rates of settlement.

Qualicum, with a reported salary increase of 0.5 per cent, was among districts that announced salary agreements through conciliation Tuesday.

Others follow with salary increase in brackets: Alert Bay (2.9 per cent), Mission (2.2 per cent), Burnaby (1.5 per cent), Howe Sound (1.3 per cent), Maple Ridge (2.2 per cent), Grand Forks (not known).

In addition, Kelowna, Fort Nelson, Enderby, Barriere and Birch Island—all on the mainland—agreed to accept settlements in neighboring districts.

Air Commodore to Visit City

Former commandant of the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads, Air Commodore J. B. Millward will visit the college this weekend.

Director of the regular officer training plan at defence headquarters, he will arrive Saturday at 4 p.m.

Air Commodore Millward will also visit reserve units at Victoria University and HMCS Malahat. He will return to Ottawa Wednesday.

Tomcat Sets Off Neighborly Spat

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Okay, so Herman's not a cool cat, but is it his fault that he's got more appeal than the neighborhood can handle?

Herman, a tomcat, lives with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bowler of Almeda, defendants in a suit brought by neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cook.

The Cooks, who raise Siamese cats, claim Herman is a nuisance to their felines. The Cooks want $3,500 damages and surgery that will help keep Herman at home.

The Bowlers, in a countersuit, deny the charges and declare the Siamese cats just won't leave Herman alone.

Herman, the Bowlers said, is just "a red-blooded American tomcat, with the manly attributes and instincts of a tomcat of any nationality."

And those Siamese cats, the Bowlers added, have been scratching each other, fighting for Herman's attentions.

The Bowlers alleged the Cooks have kept as many as 50 Siamese and if anyone has been wronged it's Herman.

The Bowlers asked $1,500 damages from the Cooks and a restraining order against all those Siamese.

Pending the verdicts, Herman is under house arrest, barred from leaving his home.

Don't Scare Backers—BCE

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Electric Co. Wednesday asked the Public Utilities Commission for time to present a "full picture" of its earnings and rates.

The company also asked the PUC not to discourage Eastern investors by giving the impression that its earnings may be further restricted.

The plea came at a public hearing into the intention of the commission to scrap its 1952 ruling that 6.5 per cent is a "reasonable and fair" profit for the company to make.

The point at issue is the requirement of the commission that any rate increase be approved. This has been challenged by the company and the Supreme Court of Canada recently ruled that B.C. Electric could increase rates at will as long as it stayed within the percentage limit.

Vancouver, Victoria, the Fraser Valley Association of Municipalities, White Rock and a representative of industry urged the commission to maintain control of the utility's rate structure.

Commission Chairman H. F. Angus said this could possibly be done be removing the ceiling on earnings and simply requiring the company to submit proposed rate increase and prove they were fair and reasonable.

Terrence O'Grady, Victoria city solicitor, said the Supreme Court ruling would upset the PUC's control over rates.

"After all, the B.C. Electric is not a benevolent Association," he said. "It is in business to make a profit for its shareholders and is now charging all the traffic will bear."

Trans-Pacific Tows

Tugs Crisscrossing

Two big tows by Victoria tugs are nearing the international dateline as they crisscross the Pacific.

Sudbury II, headed for San Francisco, is hauling two huge tanker mid-sections built in a Japanese shipyard.

Bound for Japan from Victoria is her sister ship Cambrian Salvor with two former Liberty merchant ships that will be broken up for scrap.

Two Japanese Stars To Sign with Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Horace Stonehan, owner of San Francisco Giants, says he is on the verge of signing a pitcher and third baseman, both from Japan.

They would start with the Giants' Tacoma, Wash., club in the Pacific Coast League.

"I can neither spell nor pronounce their names," said Stoneham, whose Giants lost four of 16 games during a recent tour of Japan.

VIEWS of SPORT

By Red Smith

The Yankees had come back to St. Petersburg after a spring training game in Tampa where Roy McMillan, of all people, had flogged the New York pitchers until their eyes were glazed like a Ming vase. McMillan was starting his tenth year as the Cincinnati shortstop—his tenth as the best shortstop in the National League, a good many authorities would agree—and the Yankees knew all about the boy bandit's many-splendored fielding. At the plate, however, he had seldom been confused with King Kong.

"He's been around ten years," Casey Stengel was saying, "and he never hit nine home runs in a year in the big leagues or the minors until he broke a shoulder last year. They tell me Wally Moses got ahold of him when he couldn't swing on account of the shoulder, and Moses got him to shorten his swing and that's how he hit nine home runs last year when he could only play half a season."

This was last March, when Moses was a coach with the Cincinnati Reds. Casey's remarks were recalled last week when Moses was hired as a Yankee coach to fill the vacancy created by Ralph Houk's accession to Stengel's place on the bench.

"He was the one I wanted," Houk said, "as soon as I heard he was available."

In a way this seemed odd, for Houk didn't see much of Moses as a player and couldn't have had a great deal of contact with him in the few years they were both in the American League, Houk as bullpen catcher for the Yankees and Wally as a coach with the Athletics. Evidently word got around about Wally, as well it might.

Feeding Hand Well Bitten

A guy who has known Wallace Moses Jr. almost from his days in the bullrushes can testify that he should be able to teach the Yankees a number of things—hitting, hustling, running, and especially gnawing on the hand that grips the purse strings. As an outfielder with the Athletics he was a sweetheart who daily warmed the aging cockles of Connie Mack; given a choice at contract time, Connie would gladly have taken tetanus.

Wally came up to Philadelphia from Galveston in 1935, a little guy ars outfielders are measured, squint-eyed and leathery and approximately as swift as light, lefthanded all the way, with a lovely one-piece swing. He would challenge anything or anybody; in his first big league season he smashed an arm chasing a fly through a concrete wall.

He hit .325 his first year, .340 in his second, .320 with 25 home runs in his third. "I'm a little guy," he said, "I don't figure to have many more years like that. Got to get the money."

Connie Mack was aghast. "Why!" he said, "this man has held out every year! He held out the year we got him, even before he joined us! He's a good ball player but he thinks he's a helluva ball player, and he's not. He's a—a—"

"A helluva ball player," somebody said, and Connie thereupon forbade use of Wally Moses' name in interviews. This was in training camp in 1938 in Lake Charles, La.

One day Wally Moses drove into Lake Charles with his wife and infant daughter. Connie welcomed Moses with the genial warmth of a fer de lance, and they went upstairs. In a little while Wally came down. He's fairly dark of complexion, but now his face was white. He piled bride, daughter, and self into the car and roared off.

Good Ones Get Together

We thought we'd see no more of him, and we didn't in Lake Charles. Somehow, though, good ball players and their employers almost always get together. By mail or phone a deal was made and Moses joined the club on the way north, with a two-year contract for $25,000. An annual wage of $12,500 was pretty good in those days. "He's a hell of a ball player," Connie said.

Funny thing about Moses. Everybody considered that he was the fastest man in the league from the plate to first base, but he hardly ever stole a base for the Athletics. Then Connie swapped him to the White Sox and the larcenous beast emerged.

His roommate with the White Sox was Joe Kuhel, who had nothing like Wally's speed but still managed to steal somewhere near two dozen bases a year. Joe was a great one for talking baseball, and they'd sit in the hotel room and yack away and Kuhel would drop hints about how to take a lead and study the pitcher and get the jump on him.

In 1941 Moses hit 301 for the Athletics and swiped three bases. In 1942 he batted .270 for the White Sox and stole sixteen. In 1943 he batted only .245, which means he wasn't on base very often, and he stole 56 times. The one thing a good teacher needs above all else is the ability to learn.

Cougars Get New Defenceman

How's That Again, Marcel?

By JIM TANG

If next week you should hear Marcel Pelletier hollering "Recule pas, En voie, en voie, sort la. Recule pas," at his defencemen don't think that excitement of the moment has caused him to revert to the language he knows best. There'll be someone back there who'll know what the Victoria goalkeeper is saying.

He'll be Georges Roy, a veteran from Quebec City whose command of the English language is a tenuous thing and who would have to be pardoned for any error if Marcel did his exhorting in English.

Roy is the new defenceman for the Cougars, a 33-year-old French-Canadian as colorful and as sturdy as a fireplug who, Marcel says, should help his new club both on the ice and at the gate.

And Marcel adds, he'll try to do something about it when he hears Marcel shout, "Don't back up. Come, come on, move him out. Don't back up."

"He's a pretty good defenceman," says Marcel, who played behind him for two seasons at Chicoutimi. "He can carry the puck real good, is a good skater and he can shoot real good."

Marcel added that Roy likes to play and "he can handle himself real good in a fight."

Roy's record backs up his former teammate. The chunky—five feet, eight inches and 180 pounds—defenceman played eight seasons with Chicoutimi in the old Quebec Hockey League, turned pro last season with Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League. He started this season with Sault Ste. Marie of the Eastern Hockey League and comes to the Cougars courtesy of the Black Hawks, who own his contract.

He played 499 league games in the QHL and was always among the higest-scoring defencemen. He averaged 35 points a season and in three seasons made more than 50 points. His record shows 90 goals and 271 assists in the QHL, six goals and 13 assists for the Aces in 63 games last season.

Another statistic indicates that the Victoria defence is to get some new bounce. In his nine seasons he has spent 1,105 minutes in the penalty box, averaging 123 minutes a season.

Roy's enthusiasm, reports say, results in some needless penalties but the same reports say that one of the things he has an abhorrence for is seeing an opposition forward coming with his head down.

Roy is currently en route, by car, with his family from Sault Ste. Marie and is not expected to arrive in time for tomorrow's game at Memorial Arena against Edmonton Flyers. Coach George Agar, however, hopes that he will show in time to play in Portland on Sunday.

Agar said Roy is coming on a "look-see" basis, but added that he had no doubts the veteran would make his place.

"We need a fifth defenceman and we need a hitter," Agar said. "I have hopes that Roy is going to fill the bill."

Flyers Take Firmer Lead; Totems Finally Hit Stride

Edmonton Flyers pulled away to a healthy five-point lead in the Western Hockey League last night, scoring twice in the final period to edge Portland Buckaroos, 3-2, at Portland.

Despite the fact that it was the second game in as many nights at the new Portland arena, a crowd of 4,337 turned out to watch the Buckaroos, now holding down sixth place but just two points out of second. On Tuesday, 5,584 fans watched the Bucks beat Spokane, 3-2, in the city's first professional hockey game in 10 years.

Bruce MacGregor broke a 1-1 tie at the 59 second mark of the third period and Gord Labossiere made it 3-1 for Flyers five minutes later. Buckaroos fought back to within one goal at 10.02 when Jack Bionda and Arnie Schmautz set up Gordie Haworth, but couldn't beat Dennis Riggin again as time ran out.

Last night's scores: Edmonton 3 at Portland 2, Seattle 4 at Winnipeg 2.
Next game, tonight: Winnipeg at Calgary.

Gordie Fashoway had given Portland a 1-0 lead on a play with Schmautz and Art Jones in the first period, but Lou Marcon tied it up at 9.48 of the second.

Riggin stopped 26 shots and rookie Don Head blocked only 18 for Portland.

GRAB SHARE

At Winnipeg, Seattle Totems grabbed a share of third place by scoring two unanswered goals in the third period for a 4-2 victory over the Warriors. Seattle, Calgary and Vancouver are all tied one point back of the second-place Warriors.

Rudy Filion, top point-getter in the WHL, scored his seventh and eighth goals for Totems, brining his total to 21 points in 15 games. Centre Guyle Fielder, although credited with only one assist, was the other Totem standout, centring on a Seattle power play that netted two goals, both by Filion.

Other Seattle scorers were Ed Ehrenverth and Tom McVie. Nick Mickoski and Gord Redahl counted for Warriors.

Warriors spotted Seattle a 2-0 lead, then came back to score twice in the second period. McVie broke the deadlock with 12 seconds gone in the third period, taking a behind-the-net pass from Fielder.

Filion made it 4-2 with seven minutes remaining. On both his goals, Warriors were playing two men short.

Frank Arnett of Seattle picked up his second spearing penalty of the season in the first period and under a new league rule will pay an automatic $35 fine. Ruling calls for a $25 fine for the first such penalty and $25 plus an additional $10 for each additional penalty.

Totems were slow to start, and didn't get a shot at Harry Lumley until the game was nine minutes old. Lumley finished with 17 saves, and Bev Bentley blocked 33.

SPRINGBOKS WIN

GLASGOW (AP)—The South African Rugby Union team came from behind three times Wednesday to defeat Glasgow and Edinburgh 16-11.

City Stars Getting Ready for Rams

Prepping for "Little Grey Cup" game against Winnipeg Rams for unofficial western Canada juvenile Canadian football title next Wednesday at Royal Athletic Park, Victoria all-stars went through another stiff workout last night. Among those picked to team were, front row, Bryan Gray, Jim Blades, Jack Heath and Jack Collins; centre, John Ward, Alan Foster, Brian Snead, John Dobrocky, and, back row, Ray Tillyer, Dennis McKay, Pat Aldous, Brian Rigby and Eric Evans.

Yesterday's scores: Victoria High 3, Oak Bay 1; Esquimalt 0, Belmont 0; Royal Oak 4, Milne's Landing 2; Mount View 4, Mount Douglas 0.

Dave Price watched his Victoria High senior soccer team battle into the Colonist Cup final yesterday, then went home to consider the knotty problem of Larry Johnston.

Vics downed Oak Bay, 3-1, yesterday to break their second-place tie and qualify for the playoff against Mount View Hornets. That will put them squarely up against Johnston, the stingiest goalkeeper in the long history of the city senior high school league.

Hornets whipped Mount Douglas, 4-0, yesterday to finish the league schedule undefeated in seven games. Johnston's personal record over that stretch is an amazing seven shutouts in seven games.

Teams have gone through the league undefeated before, but never has a goalie failed to give up a single goal. Vic High has given up just six goals itself, but took its only defeat of the season when put up against Johnston and the Hornets.

Johnston isn't the only problem connected with the Colonist Cup final. Officials are still trying to decide whether to stick with tradition and make the playoff a best-of-three affairs, or bow to early darkness and switch it to a sudden-death final under floodlights at Royal Athletic Park.

Yesterday Oak Bay and Vics were forced by early darkness to play 30-minutes halves instead of the regulation 45 minutes. For this reason it is probable that the cup final will be sudden-death, but no date has been set.

In other games yesterday Belmont and Esquimalt fought to a scoreless draw and Royal Oak beat Milne's Landing, 4-2.

Victoria High—Fred Potts, Rangit Dillon, Ashbjorn Waldal. Total—3. Oak Bay—John Fraser.

Mount View—Jim Clark, Vern Prat, Ken Piercy, Roy St. Dennis. Total—4. Mount Douglas—No score.

Royal Oak—Ron Cunningham 3, Russ Ball. Total—4. Milne's Landing—Allen Brooks, Bruce Butler. Total—2.

Canucks Seeking Evans

VANCOUVER (CP)—Claude Evans, 27-year-old much-travelled goaltender, may join Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League within a few days.

Evans now is with Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers of the Eastern Professional League. He became expendable this week when the parent New York Rangers sent Jack McCartan to Kitchener, subject to immediate recall.

McCartan, star of the U.S. Olympic championship team last year, had been sharing the New York goaltending duties with veteran Lorne Worsley.

New York has made it clear that McCartan must play regularly at Kitchener and Vancouver hopes to get Evans.

"I've been after Evans for some time," said Vancouver general-manager Coley Hall who spent last weekend negotiating with the Rangers.

Evans was the EPHL's leading goaltender last year while with Three Rivers. He has been a professional since 1953 and has had brief trials with Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League.

They started the season late, but Oak Bay Optimists are making their presence felt in the Junior Men's Basketball League.

Optimists rolled to their second straight victory last night, dumping Victoria University, 36-26, as Malcolm Mitchell scored 16 points. Victory left them tied with Navy for second place, just two points back of the undefeated Victoria Optimists.

In the senior "B" women's game, Naval Vets edged Hudson's Bay, 31-29.

Pistons Driving Warriors Wilt

Detroit Pistons stretched their winning streak to four games in the National Basketball Association last night, nipping the slumping Philadelphia Warriors, 119-118.

Despite a 41-point performance by Wilt Chamberlain and 31 points from Paul Arizin, Warriors went down to their third straight defeat after winning their first nine games in the eastern division.

Boston Celtics blew a 15-point lead, then were rallied by veteran Bob Cousey and downed St. Louis Hawks, 124-106. Cousey was top man for either club with 30 points.

Dolph Schayes passed the 16,000-point mark for his 13-year career, potting 13 in Syracuse Nationals' 124-87 victory over Cincinnati. He now has 16,004. Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson was held to 16 points.

Hayhurst and Gutoski Post Curling Victories

Eight of the nine Victoria rinks entered last night started the long road which will bring one British Columbia quartet out to the Canadian curling championships, in Calgary in March.

Co-favored Steve Hayhurst and Tony Gutoski both came through in their first games of the round-robin series but Gutoski, 1958 B.C. champion, was far off form and could easily have lost to Larry Marshall.

Gutoski came out on the right end of an 11-7 score.

Behind, 6-2, starting the 11th, Marshall almost pulled it out with a gambling game which worked when Gutoski, pushing his shots, couldn't make his last rock on four successive ends. Marshall got two on the seventh, stole single points on the eighth, ninth and 10th ends to take a 7-6 lead.

He had tough luck on the 11th with a freeze attempt which looked as if it might be good when he lost his turn and his rock ended out in the open. Gutoski made the takeout and stuck for four and a three-rock lead heading home.

He got into trouble again there with Marshall laying three when Gutoski went down for last rock. Trying for a double or a roll in front of another rock, Gutoski hit a rock in the 12-foot and rolled into the four-foot. Marshall still had two seconds, and there was a difference of opinion among spectators as to whether or not the rock Gutoski had hit had come off the divider to stick or whether it had gone directly onto a rock laying just outside the rings but in play.

In any event, it was removed and Marshall was left needing to stick with a takeout to force the extra end. He was narrow.

Hayhurst, playing only three men with Les Brice coming out of sick bed to throw his first two rocks, took Gordie Moore, 12-7. The game swung on the 10th when Moore missed last rock and Hayhurst counted three to go five up.

In other games, Bill McLean, four up coming home, got by Sam Rycroft, 9-8, and and Erick Bullock, who was curling strongly, beat Elmer Hoffman, 9-7.

The round-play will be completed Dec. 22 with the Victoria winner meeting champions of the four other Island clubs for the Island title. The Island champions then play the Fraser Valley and Lower Mainland survivors for the right to represent the Pacific Coast Curling Association.

After that comes a best-of-three provincial final against the B.C. Curling Association champions, at Kamloops Feb. 12, and then, at last, the trip to Calgary.

Just Loves Competition

Ranger Doghouse Gump's Domain

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

You could almost say that Gump Worsley loves being in the doghouse. That seems to be his formula for success as goalkeeper with New York Rangers of the National Hockey League.

Certainly the most controversial and colorful netminder in the game, rollicking Gump has had would-be successors breathing down his neck for years while he takes time out to feud with team officials.

This has been going on since he went to the Rangers from Saskatoon of the Western Hockey League in the 1952-53 season. He has shucked off four pretenders to the Rangers' goalkeeping job since then although the 31-year-old Gump has been blithely jumping around between the major and minor leagues.

His latest victory is over Olympic hero Jack McCarten who jumped out of his Winter Games uniform to the Rangers' blue and white at the tail-end of last season. He had a four-game stint at home and allowed only seven goals while Rangers won one game, tied two and lost one.

SHORT-LIVED HERO

McCartan was the rage of hockey circles in Manhattan. Here was the All-American boy, the only U.S.-born goalkeeper in the NHL, who would take over from Montreal-born Gump.

This year, despite vigorous protests from Worsley, team officials decided that Gump and McCartan would alternate in the nets. The feud spilled into the public prints last week when Worsley said general manager Muzz Patrick made him play although he had a sore back. Patrick said there was nothing wrong with him.

Worsley was in the doghouse this week when it was announced that McCartan, who played 6 1/3 games and allowed 30 goals, would play with Kitchener - Waterloo of the Eastern Professional Hockey League. "He needs regular work and he is not getting it here," said Patrick. All he lacks is experience to become a big league goalie."

Ranger officials have been saying this sort of thing for years, since Worsley first joined the club.

BEAT OUT BOWER

Gump played 50 games that first season in 1952-53, but was shipped to Vancouver of the WHL in 1953-54 while Johnny Bower took over. In 1954-55, Worsley was back in the big league and Bower went to Vancouver.

Things went fine for Gump the next two seasons and when Phil Watson took over, things started to hum. In the 1957-58 season, Marcel Paille took over while Gump spent half the season in the American Hockey League with Providence.

Worsley managed a full stint in the 1958-59 campaign but last year he was injured, was shipped to the AHL with Springfield for 15 games while the Rangers tried out Al Rollins, Paille and McCartan.

But nothing daunts Worsley. He claims he'll never crack up from the tension that tightens the nerves of most goalkeepers and around the NHL he's known as the coolest man on ice.

Off the ice, he feuds with team officials. And that might be the secret of his success. At least it keeps his mind off the tough job of goalkeeping.

New York Shuffles Forwards And Finally Finds Formula

New York Rangers unveiled three revamped forward lines last night and scored an uphill 4-3 victory over Boston Bruins to snap an eight-game winless streak in the National Hockey League.

Dean Prentice scored the winner with just one second remaining in regulation time, climaxing a three-goal rally in the third period.

Desperate after watching his club get just one point for a tie in eight games, coach Alf Pike moved Brian Cullen in to centre for Prentice and Ken Schinkel, switched Red Sullivan to centre for Andy Bathgate and Larry Wilson, and called Ted Hampson off the bench to pivot for Andy Hebenton and Camille Henry.

Each line contributed to the scoring, but it was the Prentice-Cullen-Schinkel unit that did most of the damage.

Bronco Horvath's second goal of the night put Boston ahead, 3-1, early in the third period. But Henry tipped in a drive by Hebenton at 4.03, and Schinkel picked up a rebound to tie it up at 7.17.

BULLET DRIVE

Then it was Schinkel again, shaking Prentice loose at the Boston blue line. The veteran centre waited until the last possible instant, then beat Don Simmons with a bullet drive from 25 feet out.

Vic Stasiuk got Boston's other goal. Horvath's first goal came on a power play in the first period, but Bathgate tied it up before the period ended, also on a power play.

Detroit Red Wings missed their chance to tie Montreal for first place, playing to a 3-3 tie with the Leafs at Toronto. At that they had to come from behind, splitting the points on defenceman Warren Godfrey's goal at 3.49 of the third period.

ONE BEHIND

Result left Wings one point behind the Canadiens and two points up on the Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks.

Wings poured 39 shots at a shaky Johnny Bower, who appeared to let in two easy chances. Meanwhile Hank Bassen was handling 22 shots and lent credence to rumors that he may have replaced Terry Sawchuk as Detroit's regular netminder. He has now played in eight games, and the club has five wins and two ties.

Norm Ullman and Murray Oliver got Detroit's other goals. Bert Olmstead scored twice for Toronto and Red Kelly got the other against his former teammates.

Eskimos Envision Grey Cup But Bombers' Picture Grim

EDMONTON (CP) — The vision of a Grey Cup, once blurred by a late season slump, again is uppermost in the minds of Edmonton Eskimos as they practice long and hard for their final Western Interprovincial Football Union battle with the Blue Bombers Saturday in Winnipeg.

Wednesday, the Eskimos stretched their normal 30-minute workout in Clarke Stadium to three hours, causing the Touchdown Club to cancel a scheduled luncheon because neither coach nor players were available.

Reviewing WIFU game films in preparation for another heavy drill today, coach Eagle Keys said his club has "retained its determination to win."

Edmonton dropped the first game of the best-of-three final 22-16 and took the second 10-5 in Winnipeg Monday.

"REALLY GRIM"

The Eskimos may be gleaning another ray of hope from Winnipeg, where Bombers' coach Bud Grant said Wednesday that "things are really grim now."

Halfback Ray Jauch, who played the first game of the final for Winnipeg and was lifted for Garver Shannon in the second, is suffering from bronchitis and couldn't work out with the team Tuesday.

Fullbacks Charlie Shepard and Gerry James both are expected to dress Saturday but Grant is concerned about their effectiveness. James was unable to work out with the team Tuesday and Shepard's shoulder is stiff. James has strained knee ligaments, a bruised shoulder and sore ribs.

NEED FULLBACKS

"We can't get by without the fullbacks at a time like this," said Grant, "the halfbacks aren't any good to you without the fullbacks."

Grant said he'll plan for Saturday on the assumption that Vernon Cole will be the quarterback. The Winnipeg line and defence are both healthy.

"If they can walk or crawl they'll be out there Saturday," Grant said, "there's no turning back now, and if a man can only go a quarter or a half, he'll be there."

Leo Lewis and Shannon are the only members of the Bomber backfield who started the season and are still fit and ready for play.

Keys suggested the team spirit made up for the club's poor health in the second game.

But he has more than spirit up his sleeve for Saturday's game. Defensive halfback Steve Bendiak is being fitted with a special protective mask for his healing cheek-bone fracture. If it works, he will play Saturday. Bendiak was injured in the second semi-final game against the Stampeders in Calgary Nov. 5 and an operation was required to reset the bone.

The Eskimo camp was minus veteran half Rollie Miles who was placed in hospital Wednesday with strep throat. The same infection kept halfback Joe-Bob Smith out of the first game.

Keys announced that import tackle Toby Deese, a star in the opener, will be back.

Bill Smith, with a cast on his fractured wrist, will be back on defence.

End Jim Letcavits, whose sprained ankle was the only Monday injury besides bruises among the Eskimos, is expected to be fit for Saturday.

Keys is still saying Cowboy Woodruff will not play but the plucky halfback himself insists his torn leg ligaments will be sufficiently healed for the game.

Game time is 12.05 p.m. PST. It will be carried coast-to-coast by CBC-TV.

Who Needs Toes? Asks Bootin' Ben

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Considering that some of his present teammates were only three or four years old when he started in professional football, Ben Agajanian must be regarded as an amazing specimen.

Add to this the fact that the place-kicking specialist of Los Angeles Chargers of the American League lost all but the little toe of his right (kicking) foot in an elevator accident in 1941.

Now 41 and a trim 200 pounds, "Bootin' Ben" is in his fifth—or sixth or seventh—comeback.

He is the oldest player in United States pro ranks and in 18 years has played in every major and bush league in the U.S.

"Quit? I'm having too much fun," says Agajanian.

His greatest years were with New York Giants of the National League in 1950-51-52 and 1955-56-57 and part of 1958, which was when Pat Summerall sent him into another "retirement."

Philadelphia Eagles, Washington Redskins, Los Angeles Rams, Los Angeles Dons of the old All-America Conference, Pittsburgh, Hollywood Bears—Agajanian has played for the best.

Aggie, who has kicked six field goals this year, doesn't take his 1941 foot injury seriously.

A father once asked him how to make a place-kicker out of his son.

"Cut off his toes," answered Ben.

Alberta Heads East

McGill Monsters Outweigh Bears

EDMONTON (CP) — University of Alberta Golden Bears leave for Montreal today under no illusions of what they'll be up aganist when they tangle with McGill University Redmen Saturday for the Canadian intercollegiate football crown.

"They're terrifically big," was one of the first observations of Bears' head coach Murray Smith.

Another equally important point: "They have it over us in experience, especially those American college-trained players."

But Smith's crew is "reasonably ready" to solve one big question — the difference or similarity of the calibre of Western and Eastern intercollegiate football.

Golden Bears, returned to Western intercollegiate football for their second year after a 10-year layoff, go after the Churchill Cup boasting a remarkable for-and-against average of 98-9 for the season.

EASILY BEAT CHAMPS

They rolled through their four-game schedule with considerable ease, stopping the defending champion University of British Columbia Thunderbirds 20-2 and 20-6 and making sport with the University of Saskatchewan Huskies 19-0 and 39-1.

For the West, at least, there's much more in the wind than winning one football game, pleasant though that will be. There's the idea of using this game as a foothold which may lead to more definite things along the lines of a national intercollegiate athletic union.

The West has felt that the East isn't over-eager for such a hook-up with their "country cousins."

Smith agrees that Saturday's tussle could be a miniature Grey Cup—the East's passing versus the West's ground attack. He has particular respect for the passing arm of American quarterback Tom Skypeck, named most valuable player in the Eastern senior league, not to mention the huge American linemen on the McGill roster.

OUTWEIGHED BY McGILL

"We'll be materially outweighed — by an average of 25 to 40 pounds," says Smith upon word that Redmen tackles weigh in at something like 220 to 235 pounds.

"There's one man on our team who's more than 200 pounds, that's tackle Clayton Ellis. The next biggest is about 192 pounds."

Table Tennis Meets Monday

Bid for new members is being made by the Victoria Table Tennis Association.

Newcomers and ex-members are invited to be on hand next Monday night at 7.30 at 1318 Broad Street.

Plans for the season and election of an executive will be held during the evening.

Closure Date 13 Days Early

SEATTLE (AP) — Puget Sound will be closed to all commercial salmon fishing Thursday, 13 days ahead of schedule, state fisheries director Milo Moore announced Wednesday.

Moore said the early closure was ordered because of the poor chum salmon run.

World Record Deer Bagged?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The world's largest spread of deer antlers may be eclipsed by a mule deer shot during the weekend by Robert Wray of Haney, B.C. His buck was measured at 30½ inches, inside spread, with a total of 17 points.

Present world record antlers for mule deer in the same non-typical class have a spread of 29 with 16 points.

A period of 60 days must elapse before final official measurement of the antlers. After this drying-out period, the figures are recorded.

Villanueva Turns Out

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the inter-city basketball league added two players to the club roster here Wednesday.

Primo Villanueva, former member of the WIFU team, and young Henry Huth, labelled as a future member of the Lions, will join the basketball club for a game here tonight against Vancouver Deitrich-Coltins.

Lions, comprised mostly of football players, have a 1-1 record this season.

Villanueva is now a restaurant owner in Vancouver after retiring from football.

'Canals' Still an Enigma After 82 Years of Study

Mars Excites Man's Imagination

By DR. PETER MILLMAN

This is the fourth of 10 articles by Dr. Millman, astrophysicist with the National Research Council in Ottawa, outlining nature of the worlds of our solar system and perils space travellers will face.

Of all the worlds of space we have observed, there is no doubt that Mars is the one which has excited the greatest imagination of man.

Ever since 1878, when Schiaparelli in Italy announced that he had observed "canali" on Mars, this planet has been the centre of speculation and controversy. And today, 82 years later, the discussion concerning the exact nature of the "canali" is as lively as ever.

Mars, the red planet, comes into a favorable position every 25½ months. It is now coming closer to earth and will grow steadily brighter until Christmas Day, when it will be closest to Earth at a distance of 56,400,000 miles, and visible all night.

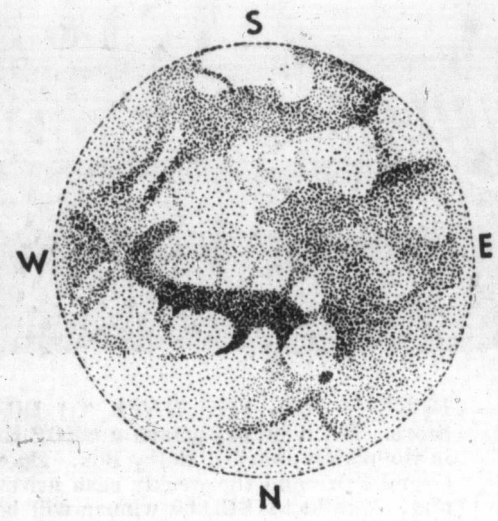
Although Mars has a diameter little more than half the diameter of the earth, a visitor to its surface will find many striking similarities to terrestial conditions. From Mars the sun appears a bit smaller but rises and sets regularly, giving a day only 40 minutes longer than our own.



The seasons on Mars are similar to those found on Earth, but last nearly twice as long. During the winter season in either hemisphere a large area near the pole is covered with a white deposit of frost crystals or snow, and this melts in the summer. The illustration pictures the south polar cap during spring in the southern hemisphere.

The force of gravity on Mars is roughly two-fifths of that found here. There is a thin atmosphere with a ground pressure a little less than 1/10 that of our atmosphere. This is normally thick with a violet-blue haze and yellow dust clouds and white vapor clouds occasionally cover large areas. It must be admitted that these are not nearly so numerous as clouds are on earth.

Incidentally, the thin atmosphere of Mars will not support animal life of the type found here, as it is mostly nitrogen and contains only a little carbon dioxide and practically no oxygen.

Recent studies of the infra-red light from Mars by Dr W. M. Sinton at the Lowell Observatory give fairly good evidence for organic molecules and possibly carbohydrates in the dark areas. These may be present in some type of low-grade vegetation that has adapted itself to the extremely arid conditions on our neighboring planet. The seasonal changes in the dark areas, keeping pace with the melting and freezing of the polar caps, lend support to this view.

The canals of Mars still remain an enigma and will probably not be completely explained until observed through automatic photography from a space rocket sent to circle Mars.

A new and novel suggestion concerning Mars has been proposed in the U.S. This is that the polar caps are not a frozen form of water but consist of nitrogen tetroxide deposits which spread poisonous nitrous oxide gases over the surface each spring. If this were so, Mars would be a really dead world. Again, we must wait for the question to be settled by a Martian space probe.

Garden Notes

Just Pick and Eat

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Of all the thrills and satisfactions we encounter in our favorite hobby, gardening, I don't know of any which can compare with picking and eating your own sun-ripened fruit from your own trees.

It isn't only the flavor of the fruit, which is incomparably better in fruit which has been allowed to ripen naturally as against the commercial stuff which was picked on the green side and held in cold storage.

There is also the all-consuming interest and excitement which come from following the growth and development of your tree from its baby stage right through to the point where the luscious, sun-warmed fruit is ready to pick. With tree-planting time in full swing now, I think we might spend the next few days kicking around the problems of choosing, buying and planting fruit trees.

Until fairly recent years, you had to have a pretty big garden before you could ever think of growing any tree fruit, for a full-grown apple or pear tree was an enormous thing, casting so much shade that nothing else could be grown near it. Nowadays, thanks to painstaking research done in England, it is possible to buy your trees grafted on special dwarfing roots which keep them from growing more than six or eight feet tall.

The fruit grown on these dwarf trees is identical in size, shape, color and flavor with the same variety grown on the conventional big tree. A McIntosh apple, for instance, is the same whether it comes from a big tree or a dwarf. You get more apples from a big tree, of course, but you can plant more dwarf trees in the same area of ground—in fact, you harvest more fruit per acre from dwarf trees than from big ones.

One big advantage of the dwarf tree is the speed with which it reaches bearing age. A big apple tree, for example, may take as long as 15 years before it starts producing any fruit, but the dwarfs will usually begin bearing the second year after they are planted, reaching their maximum production in their fourth year after their purchase.

An even more important advantage is that, with their small size, you have room to plant more than one variety, which makes for good pollination. A single apple or pear tree will often bloom profusely but the tiny fruits all fall off because no suitable or compatible "husband" tree is nearby. With a well-chosen collection of dwarfs, each tree works to the benefit of its mates. Moreover, it is a treat to the palate to have a variety of flavors rather than eating the same kind of apple all winter.

These little trees are highly ornamental, too, and may be planted in the shrub border or even as a specimen tree in the lawn, although the ideal system, where space premits, is to establish a small orchard or fruit garden all to itself. As the dwarf trees may be planted as close as eight feet apart, quite a lot of fruit—and quite a variety—can be grown in places where even one full-size standard tree would crowd the garden. The dwarfs also can be sprayed, pruned and harvested without a ladder.

Unfortunately, only apple and pear trees are readily available on dwarfing roots. Peaches, plums and cherries are mostly grown as fairly large trees.

Realtors Come Before People

I like cities. I've lived in New York for 25 years and it has taught me most of what I know about the theatre, about politics, about art, about people. Above all, it has taught me forbearance, which is the price you pay to live in any large American city, especially New York. The livin'—to use Ira Gershwin's expressive word—ain't easy.

Why? London is huge but it's beautiful and it's a pleasant place to live. Paris is inexpressibly beautiful and it's a marvellous place to live for anyone from a Rothschild to a shop girl. But not New York. Fortune Magazine some years back wrote that the big cities of America were gradually being inhabited only by "the very rich, the very poor, and the slightly odd." The rest, which is to say the healthiest and largest elements of the population, are fleeing to the suburbs.

This is a terrible thing. It drains a city of its most responsible elements; it saps its intellectual vitality. It robs the city of the very reasons for its existence.

People are the forgotten element in all city planning—at least American city planning. Instead, the right of the realtors, the rights of the automobile, the prosperity of the merchants, the speeding of crosstown traffic, access to the airports, and a lot of other phrases, that theoretically are to the people's interest but actually aren't.

Cities—not only New York but all of them—must be pleasant places to live in for people, for children and for dogs—and their interests should come ahead of the real estate interests and every other special group. This is not simply a matter of providing enough parks and schools and light and air; it goes to cherishing and preserving the best of a city, its most beautiful buildings and its trees, as respect for our past traditions, as part of the heritage we hand on to our children.

These things are important.

In Paris, the skyline is sacred. After the war, when an unscrupulous builder added an extra storey to a city that desperately needed housing, the outraged city tore down the offending extra storey, fined the builder a 1,000,000 francs and then, for good measure, threw the scoundrel in jail which he well deserved.

Not long ago I walked through East Berlin. Piles of rubble. Then I walked through my own Greenwich Village. Piles of rubble. The one done by bombs. The other by builders tearing down beautiful, well-built, well-proportioned buildings, in order to put up hideous, badly constructed apartments with cramped rooms, low ceilings, and paper thin walls—the slums of tomorrow. We ought to throw the scoundrels in jail, too.

Hollywood Today

Tammie to Wait At the Airport For Rex Harrison

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

HOLLYWODD (NANA) — Tammy Grimes, the "Unsinkable Molly Brown," will be at the New York airport to meet Rex Harrison when he flies in from London this week. Rex plans to stay awhile in Manhattan where he plans to buy a house. Marriage, anyone?

★ ★ ★

Later in the season, Rex will star in a TV spectacular with Bing Crosby and Maurice Chevalier. Their combined ages total almost 180 years, but I defy you to find a more fascinating trio, male gender.

★ ★ ★

The Yul Brynners have decided to fly to Los Angeles when they arrive from Europe, after a week in New York, in time for Thanksgiving turkey . . . Next movie for Yul takes him to Spain in the spring for "Taras Bulba."

★ ★ ★

George Peppard, on the set of "Breakfast at Tiffany's," blew his lines, walked past old friends without speaking, and later in the day forgot two appointments. Everyone thought stardom had gone to his head. Not so—just trouble at home. His six-year-old son had come down with measles. And the couple who had looked after his home for several years quarreled and announced they were getting a divorce.

★ ★ ★

With Jeff Chandler back in Hollywood after his barnstorming for president-elect John Kennedy, and making personal appearances with his movie, "The Plunderers," is dating pretty Angie Dickinson who accompanied him on the Kennedy tour.

★ ★ ★

Lucille Ball and Keith Andes are doing the sights in Philadelphia together, when not too tired from their dueting in the musical, "Wildcat."

★ ★ ★

Ramon Novarro's illness in London robs him of a comeback role in 20th-Fox's "St. Francis of Assisi."

★ ★ ★

And with the lead in "Lawrence of Arabia" still vacant, Horst Buchholz, who is to play the Arab chieftain in the Sam Spiegel production, isn't sure that the January starting date is still good. Coming up for the German actor is Billy Wilder's "One, Two, Three," from the Molnar play.

★ ★ ★

Add another disappointed actor—Robert Sterling, and his wife, Anne Jeffreys. They were planning to star in "Day Before Spring," one of the earlier collaborations between Lerner and Loewe. But Arthur Freed at Metro has decided to make a movie of the property, bought by the studio more than a decade ago.

★ ★ ★

Remember Nancy Carroll, the dimpled darling of the early talkie days? Nancy married a Dutch millionaire a few years ago and has been living in Mexico City. She is now in New York, hoping to resume her career. And commute between jobs to Mexico. Her marriage would seem to be this way—that way.

★ ★ ★

Rita Gam has taken typewriter in hand and is writing her reminiscences as an actress who has seen movie duty in all parts of the world. Rita's husband is a publisher; he suggested the story. You will see her soon in "King of Kings."

★ ★ ★

Director-producer Fred Zinnemann has the first draft of the James Michener best seller, "Hawaii," for which $600,000 was paid for movie rights. The script is three long movies in length, however, and must be trimmed. I doubt that this will be made before 1962.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

About once every week I get a letter from someone who has read my book "Why Johnny Can't Read" and wants to thank me for it. Typically the letter is from a mother who has a boy around 9 or 10 who's a retarded reader.

Some of these mothers have bought my book, worked through the exercises with their child and are delighted to report wonderful success.

Some others—and I'm afraid they're the majority — have tried to work with their children, but got bogged down or lacked the necessary patience and write to me what to do.

Answer for Parents

As I explained in my book (published in 1955 by Harper), the trouble with retarded readers lies solely in the fact that they've never been taught. I mean this literally. The vast majority of our schools—public and private—use the so-called sight-reading system, which fails to teach children the basic foundation of reading: the sound values of the letters. Therefore many boys in third, fourth and fifth grade—and even in high school and college—never get beyond a stumbling, insecure way of reading.

The way to cure this disease is simple. The retarded reader must be taught slowly and systematically that the three letters in cat ,stand for the sounds of k, short a and t, and so on through the 26 letters.

The educators, to a man, ridicule this plain, obvious truth and hand out to the poor, baffled parents all kinds of gobbledygook about "reading readiness," "reading for meaning," "incidental phonics" and so on ad infinitum and ad nauseam.

The thing to do for the parent of a retarded reader—at any age—is this. Get my book "Why Johnny Can't Read" and use the exercises which make up the second half of the book. Or, if you want color and illustrations and a little more fun for a younger child, get "Reading With Phonics" by Hay and Wingo, published by Lippincott. Then work with the child patiently about 20 minutes a day, page after page. After several months he'll know how to read.

If you, as a mother, lack the patience or emotional detachment to do the job yourself, get an aunt or grandmother or older sister to work with your boy. Or else hire a bright, young college student who has not yet been infected by the educators' nonsense.

I bet you anything that within reasonable time you'll see results.

Every White Belgian

PETERBOROUGH, Ontario (CP) — When Herb Franklin of Peterborough and four other diesel experts arrived in Leopoldville in the Congo to teach the natives to operate and maintain their diesel locomotives, the Congolese stoned them and called them "Belgian saboteurs."

"They thought we were down there to take their jobs, not to train them," says Mr. Franklin. He has just returned from Africa after being sent there by the United Nations.

"Everybody with a white skin is classed as a Belgian by the natives there," he said. "You can't tell them you're from Canada. They don't know where Canada is. It will take 100 years to educate those people. There are no schools, as we know them."

When the natives could not operate the diesel engines, they decided the whites had put curses on them, he said.

"If you've got a white face, that's no place to be," he concluded.

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Col. Joseph Mobutu has announced his troops arrested a Ghanaian diplomat on charges of taking plans for a new Congo war to deposed premier Patrice Lumumba.

First Negro Sworn In

Racial Bias Attacked By Governor-General

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters)—Nnamdi Azikiwe delivered a strong attack on racial discrimination Wednesday as he was sworn in as the first Negro governor-general in the Commonwealth.

"We must regard it as a mark of disrespect and an unfriendly act if any country with whom we have friendly relations indulges in race prejudice in any shape or form—no matter how it may be legally cloaked," he declared.

Applause and cheers repeatedly interrupted the new head of state's 50-minute inaugural speech before 70,000 persons at Lagos race track. The ceremony was attended by representatives of more than 20 countries.

Enthusiastic Nigerians shouted and danced in the streets to celebrate the installation of the popular nationalist leader on his 56th birthday. Azikiwe is regarded as the chief contributor to Nigeria's political freedom.

Azikiwe said Nigeria cannot concede it is in its national interest to fraternize with countries that "practice race prejudice."

"We must not acquiesce in such an outrageous insult on the black race," he said.

Azikiwe warned:

"Until the conscience of the world has been energetically aroused to solve this problem frankly with absolute honesty, it is safe to predict that the political resurgence which is now sweeping all over Africa is capable of leading to a revanchist movement which would be disastrous to the peace of the world."

Strikes, Lockouts Cost 32,000 Man-Days of Work

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said yesterday that B.C. has lost 32,000 man-days in disputes involving 19,000 workers so far this year.

This province is in fourth place among all other provinces in a comparison of time lost through disputes, a preliminary survey compiled by federal government statisticians shows, he said.

Worst showing was made by Ontario with 285,000 man-days lost followed by Quebec, with 212,000 man-days lost and Manitoba, with 64,000 man-days lost.

Mr. Wicks said B.C.'s Trade Union Act had brought a sense of responsibility to labor relations. The act, passed last year, makes unions responsible for strike damages and restricts picketing.

Former Store Executive Dies in Victoria at 70

Samuel Edward Rathsburg, 70, 2647 Anscomb Place, former vice-president and a director of Hollingsworth and Company, which operates a chain of clothing stores on the Prairies, died Tuesday at Royal Jubilee Hospital following a lengthy illness.

He was born in Emily City, Mich. He came to Canada 34 years ago and became a naturalized Canadian. He had resided in Victoria since his retirement in 1948.

Surviving are his widow, Mabel, at home; one son, Robert, at home; and one brother, Gus C. Rathsburg of Dearborn, Mich.

Columbia River Issue

Ottawa Hits Back

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government reacted coolly yesterday to another skirmish in its little war with Premier Bennett of British Columbia about financial aid for the $458,000,000 Columbia River development program.

Mr. Bennett said in Victoria Tuesday that he wired Ottawa to seek an answer to his letter about the type and extent of federal aid.

A government spokesman yesterday reiterated that B.C. was told last February in a preliminary offer that the federal government would loan half the $344,000,000 necessary for three storage dams at an interest rate one-eighth of one per cent above what it cost the federal government to borrow the money itself.

The spokesman said Mr. Bennett finally had conceded that the offer had been made and written a letter to Finance Minister Fleming about it in the form of some questions. Answering those questions would involve cabinet consideration, he said, adding that Mr. Bennett's behavior is puzzling but perhaps explainable as his normal way of doing business.

Drinkers Found Dead

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — A man and a woman died Tuesday night following a drinking party in a Fraser River shack. Police said a bottle labelled "methyl hydrate" was found in the shack.

Ferry Pact Renewed

Provincial cabinet has approved a six-month renewal of an exclusive contract given Herbert C. R. Davis to operate the Nanaimo-Gabriola Island ferry service.

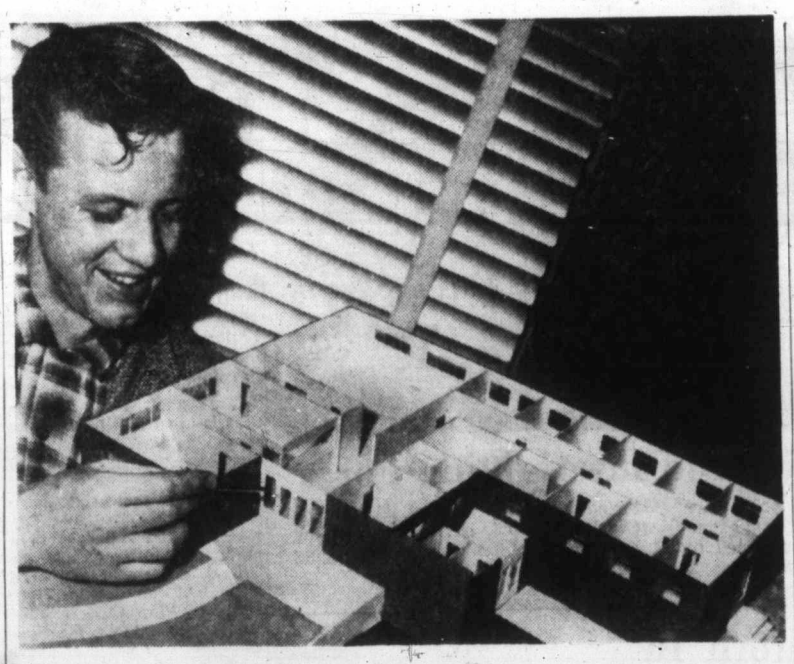
Elk Falls Park Outline Asked

CAMPBELL RIVER — Fish and game club officials here will ask the provincial government to clearly define the boundaries of Elk Falls Park.

Officials point that strangers to the area are not alone in blundering onto the park game reserve without realizing. Many local people don't know just how far the park extends.

LEADING STATES

New South Wales, one of the six states of Australia, had 3,790,000 of Australia's total 10,166,000 population in 1960.



$50,000 Duncan Health Unit Planned

Duncan Kinsman Club member Trevor Digby points to detail on model of $55,000 health unit which club is raising money for in the Cowichan Valley area. Provincial government and public health service organizations are expected to contribute to cost.—(Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

Ban Urged On Grilse

CAMPBELL RIVER—The Fish and Game Club here will urge a three-month annual closure on grilse fishing in order to allow this popular game fish to reach a degree of maturity.

Although a minimum size limit of 12 inches was extended to grilse earlier this year, club members pointed out that many of those which are released become easy prey to marauding seagulls.

B.C. Won't Operate Port Hardy Ferry

VANCOUVER (CP)—Highways Minister Gaglardi said yesterday any ferry between Port Hardy on the northern tip of Vancouver Island and Kitimat, must be operated by private enterprise.

In clarifying the B.C. government's position on a coastal route to Alaska, he said the government will look after the highways but some company will have to supply the ferries.

A vote in Alaska for a $23,000,000 bond issue for two ferries to run to Prince Rupert will be decided by absentee ballots that have not been counted. The vote was put to electors Nov. 8.

Mr. Gaglardi said when he promised that a coastal system would be ready to meet Alaskan Ferries he was not thinking of government-owned ferries.

He said he is sure the bulk of traffic to and from the Alaskan ferries would travel over highway routes through the province.

"There will be fantastic traffic over Highway 16 between Prince George and Prince Rupert, far in excess of the water route."

At the same time, privately-owned ferries could establish a marine route between Kitimat and Port Hardy.

Work was already underway to link existing logging roads with the Island Highway north of Campbell River to provide a land route to Port Hardy. The minister figured the road will cost $2,000,000.

Mediator Will Act If Alberni Decides

Inspector of municipalities J. E. Brown says it is up to Alberni council whether he acts as a mediator in the long-standing dispute between Mayor Mabel Anderson and councillors.

"Obviously, unless there is a reasonable degree of unanimity on council that I be asked to attend, my role as a mediator couldn't serve any useful purpose," he said.

Alberni council recently passed a motion asking the inspector to come to the city to discuss procedural difficulties but Mayor Anderson declared that the meeting could not be held because she hadn't called it.

She also termed a move for the rest of the council to meet privately with Mr. Brown "illegal" if city business was discussed.

Mr. Brown said he could only act as a mediator and it was essential that all members of council wanted him to go if the difficulties were to be resolved.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, Nov. 17th—Getting things is twice the fun when you know you can pay for them without hardship. That's why buying on the BANK OF MONTREAL Family Finance Plan makes such good sense. The things you buy on this low-cost plan are things you are sure you can afford. That's because the low monthly payments are geared to your individual income—and for your protection the loan is life-insured too! Next time you're considering a major purchase—see the B of M first. The friendly people at your neighbourhood branch of "My Bank" will be glad to explain this modern plan to you.

PLANNING A PARTY? Be sure to check up on your supply of BLUE BONNET MARGARINE. This margarine has a fresh, natural taste that makes snacks and sandwiches extra delicious. Everyone will enjoy the sunny-sweet flavor of Blue Bonnet . . . and I'm sure you'll agree that everything tastes better with Blue Bonnet on it. That's because Blue Bonnet is made from the finest ingredients . . . pure vegetable oils and pasteurized skim milk, with Vitamins A and D added. Blue Bonnet is delicious on hot vegetables and excellent for all your baking, too. Get Blue Bonnet today and enjoy its good taste in dozens of ways!

HERE'S A CHEERFUL IDEA for a gloomy November day . . . try something extra-special for dessert, like this luscious Strawberry Pineapple Fluff, made with NESTLE'S PURE THICK CREAM.

Drain 1 (20 ounce) tin crushed pineapple; measure 1 cup of the syrup. Dissolve 1 (3 ounce) package strawberry jelly powder in 1 cup hot water; stir in pineapple syrup. Chill until jelly just begins to set. Beat until foamy. Beat in 1 (6 ounce) tin Nestlé's Pure Thick Cream. Chill 10 minutes. Fold in pineapple. Turn into individual molds or dessert glasses. Chill until set. Yield: 6 servings.

Keep several tins of Nestlé's Pure Thick Cream on hand, right on your kitchen shelf. You'll find this rich country cream is the easy way to have real cream handy for all your creamy-good recipes.

HERE'S A BREAKFAST BONUS for all the family . . . flavorful RED RIVER CEREAL, of course! These chilly November mornings call loudly for a piping hot bowlful of Canada's favorite hot cereal. You see, Red River is a wholesome blend of cracked wheat, rye and flax. Youngsters and active workers find plus energy values in Red River. It guards regularity for older folk and sedentary workers. And, mother, it's so easy to prepare—cooks in just a few minutes. You'll agree Red River Cereal is good for every one of us, right now!

NEVER 'ON THE SHELF' FOR LONG . . . you'll find, as I have, that your big, 32-ounce jar of MIRACLE WHIP is in constant use. That's because the light and lively flavour of this popular salad dressing is unique . . . it enhances other flavours without overwhelming them. No wonder so many women find that Miracle Whip is the good taste in so many of their salads and sandwich fillings! And Miracle Whip is always fresh when you buy it. That's because it's so popular, it's never on your grocer's shelf for long!

HERE'S A TREAT FOR EVERY AGE GROUP . . . yes, youngsters and grown-ups alike love delicious AYLMER Olives. They can be the stars of so many meals and festive snacks with family or friends. I always like to have at least a couple of jars on hand. There are dozens of ways you can use Aylmer Olives — Plain or Stuffed Queen or Manzanilla—to brighten your menus. Have you tried them sliced into buttered cracker crumbs to top baked, scalloped tomatoes? Delicious! There's nothing like Aylmer Olives for flavour!

Throne Speech Today Opens Parliament

Chamber Group to Meet With Prime Minister

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce announced that a delegation of senior officers and directors will meet with Prime Minister Diefenbaker and cabinet ministers in Ottawa next Tuesday.

Gable Shy Loner

Bashful 'King' Spurned 5,000 a Week

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Clark Gable, the "king" of Hollywood actors for 30 years, was a loner despite his brash roles and leonine appearance.

Gable was 59 when the heart ailment that first struck him Nov. 6 added a fatal blow in hospital here last night.

A bashful man who was nervous in crowds, he made females swoon in the days before anyone ever heard of bobby-soxers.

He once received 5,000 marriage proposals by mail a week . . . "and let me tell you, the toughest job a man ever had is saying 'no' — politely — to 5,000 women."

Gable and his fifth wife Kay were expecting a child in March, the first for the actor.

Born in Cadiz, Ohio, Feb. 1, 1901, Gable's film career included an Academy award-winning performance in "It Happened One Night" in 1934 and tremendous success in such other movies as "Gone With the Wind" and "Mutiny on the Bounty."

He was married five times but his matrimonial record, like his many mediocre movies, was seldom criticized because of his friendly, honest manner and clean, healthy he-manliness.

The actor was born the son of William Gable, an oil field worker, and Adeline Hershelman, a farm girl, who died when Clark was one year old.

When Gable was four, his father married again and the family moved to Ohio, where the father took up farming and young Gable helped.

Stagestruck at Once

Clark later said he decided then and there to become a doctor simply because he did not want to be a farmer.

When he was 15, Gable took a job in a rubber factory in Dayton, Ohio, and there he saw his first play, "The Bird of Paradise."

He was stagestruck at once. He gave up his night course in medicine at the University of Akron and got a job as a call-boy in the theatre, at no salary. He slept in the wings and ate with the money the actors tipped him.

He was doing walk-on parts when he was called home because his stepmother was dying. After her death, Gable and his father went to the Oklahoma oil fields to work.

Against his father's wishes, Gable left the oil fields after two years to take a $10 a week job with a stock theatre company, which folded in Butte, Mont., on a sub-zero night in 1922.

Gable caught a freight train for Oregon, where he worked in a lumber camp, sold neckties in a department store and was a telephone lineman.

In 1924, Gable repaired a wire at a theatre in Portland. There stage director Josephine Dillon hired him. A Broadway actress who was 10 years his senior, she tutored Gable and soon married him.

"He was very insecure at that time," a close friend said. "He had a mother complex because his mother died when he was a year old. So he was attracted to older women."

After movie bit parts and flops on Broadway, he and Josephine were divorced in 1930.

'Painted Desert' Hit

A month later he returned to Los Angeles, got the part of a cowboy in "The Painted Desert," and was an MGM hit at $350 a week. Later he would earn 20 times that much in a week.

On March 31, 1931, he married Mrs. Rhea Langham, a wealthy Texas widow who was 11 years his senior. They divorced in 1939, long after Gable became the big star.

He was No. 1 at the box office from 1936 to 1938, and his 41 pictures grossed more than $63,000,000.

In 1939, Gable married Carole Lombard, the great love of his life. The striking couple was one of Hollywood's happiest for three years.

Then, Jan. 16, 1942, Miss Lombard and 21 other persons perished in the head-on crash of an airliner into the sheer face of a mountain near Las Vegas, Nev.

Gable never quite got over the loss of Miss Lombard. They were pals as well as lovers—had gone hunting in Mexico and shot quail in South Dakota together.

Seven months after Miss Lombard's death, Gable, who had lived almost entirely in seclusion joined the U.S. army as a private. He rose to the rank of major and flew many combat missions from bases in England before being discharged.

In 1949, Gable took his fourth plunge in marriage—a plunge that took friends by surprise. He eloped with Douglas Fairbanks Sr.'s widow, Lady Sylvia Ashley. It didn't last very long. The divorce was made final in 1952.

"It was just a matter of time until they split," said a friend. "They just weren't suited to each other. He was the rugged outdoor type—and she was the perfect drawing room beauty."

Drink Aid To Driver

LONDON (Reuters) — Drink in moderation can make a motorist drive better at night, says Dr. Franklin Bicknell, chairman of Britain's Food Education Society. Alcohol, by tending to dilate the eye pupil, improves adaptation to darkness or vision in twilight, he said.

Women Weep

Jury Chided For Freeing Sex-Killer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Superior Judge William E. Fox Wednesday told the seven women on a jury that had just voted life imprisonment for a sex-killer:

"I can't understand how you can allow this man to be set free after 12 years, as your verdict will permit. I can only hope that he will not meet any of you ladies some night in a dark place."

Several of the women left the jury box weeping.

Clergyman Charged For Bingo

TORONTO (CP) — A clergyman of the Polish National Catholic Church and four other men were charged yesterday with keeping a common gaming house through a bingo game.

Police said charges were lodged after morality squad officers sat through an evening of bingo last week at the Club Kingsway.

U.S. Tells Russia:

Sort Bloc Members If You Can

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The United States put the Soviet Union on the spot yesterday by demanding it produce a formal list of the countries it would designate as " "socialist," "neutralist" and "western" under its proposed three-bloc reorganization of the United Nations.

Sen. George Aiken, chief U.S. representative in the general assembly's budget committee, said the world would be awaiting the Russian reply "with considerable interest."

"By what right does the Soviet Union arbitrarily divide the countries of the world into three groups?" Aiken asked. "We have always felt that it was for all nations to decide for themselves what views, positions and alliances were and should be."

Rebel Bastion Recaptured

GUATEMALA CITY, (UPI) —Government forces were reported last night to have recaptured the rebel-held city of Puerto Barrios on Guatemala's Caribbean coast.

The town had been in the hands of armed rebel forces since last Sunday. It had been pounded by army air force planes and besieged by picked infantry troops using flame-throwers and rockets for more than 60 hours.

The recapture of Puerto Barrios was reported by Tropical Radio.

Unemployment, Trade Overriding Issues

OTTAWA (CP)—After three months of rest, Parliament reconvenes today with the prospect of a long and arduous session in which the overriding issues will be unemployment, trade and Canada's growing economic subservience to the United States.

The Conservative government's plan for coping with some of these riddles may be revealed at 12.30 p.m. PST when Governor-General Vanier reads the throne speech to open the fourth session of the 24th Parliament.

Content of the speech has been one of the best-kept secrets in recent years. Normally there are several pre-session leaks. But there has been little time for these to emerge since the last eight-month session of Parliament was prorogued Aug. 10.

There are only the broad hints of cabinet ministers, the cautious word of sources close to the government, and sheer speculation. All of this points to one distinct possibility.

The government, while taking immediate stop-gap steps to cope with unemployment that has reached a post-war peak for this time of year, may also look to long-term measures to raise national productivity to the point where the labor force would no longer exceed the number of jobs available.

Statutes, Orders

Civil Rights Probe Set By John D.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker hopes to carry his civil rights beliefs into a new parliamentary endeavor — a re-examination of all statutes and administrative orders-in-council for infringements on human rights and fundamental freedoms.

Whether the project will be tackled in the new session of Parliament opening Thursday may be revealed either in the throne speech or in Mr. Diefenbaker's own address Monday.

A committee on defence spending also may be established if opposition parties think another review of defence policy is needed, less than four months after its exhaustive study last summer.

Pearson to Move Monday To Cut Throne Speech

OTTAWA — Opposition Leader Hon. L. B. Pearson will move Monday to cut short the throne speech debate and call on the federal government to introduce into Parliament immediately its plans to cope with mounting unemployment.

"Surely any delay in dealing with this problem as we are approaching winter is inexcusable. The time now is for action and not words," Mr. Pearson said Wednesday night on the eve of the opening of the new parliamentary session.

He pointed out that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker had already declared that he had plans under way to be presented in detail at this session of Parliament to cope with the unemployment problem.

Members of Cabinet Study Chant Report

Copies of the 800-page Chant royal commission report on education have been given to members of the provincial cabinet for study before action is taken on implementing recommendations.

The report has been in the hands of the government for some weeks but extra copies had to be printed so that all the cabinet members could read the report for themselves.

It is unlikely the report will be made public before the next session of the legislature due to open in January.

PTA Members Query New School Bylaw

The number of new schools and additions to be built under the $784,000 Saanich school building bylaw were questioned by members of the Saanichton PTA last night.

Answering questions on the bylaw which goes to the polls Saturday, school board chairman James D. Helps said the figures were based on those of previous years.

"If the new schools are not needed they won't be built," he said.

Several members of the PTA felt the building and financial boom in the area was past and that things would settle down making the proposed number of schools unnecessary.

He was asked by P. S. Lomas, a former school trustee why the bylaw was advertised as asking for $784,000 when the school district was required to pay only $200,000 of the amount.

Chairman Helps said the provincial government required the bylaw to be advertised that way even though the government pays 75 per cent.

Additional tax levied on the school district would amount to about one mill, he said.

Five Ratepayer Groups Fight School Bylaw

Five ratepayers' organizations with a total of 2,700 members have banded together to fight the proposed $784,000 school building bylaw in rural Saanich.

A spokesman said the newly-formed ratepayers' council based its opposition on the contention that the bylaw to be voted on Saturday is simply a repetition of the one already defeated twice at the polls.

M. D. A. Darling said "strong resentment" is felt by ratepayers in the district at the failure of school board members in district 63 to agree to a public meeting to discuss points of criticism raised in letters to the board.

He said the "do-nothing" attitude of trustees in all probability will result in a third defeat for the bylaw to build new facilities for the overflow school population.

General agreement exists that more classroom space is needed, said Mr. Darling. But the ratepayers council objects to inclusion of frills and luxury items like "terrific auditoria" and "elaborate kitchens with $500 ranges to learn the art of making angel cake."

The group also called on the government to release immediately the Chant royal commission report on education, which Mr. Darling argued "must definitely have some bearing on school building costs."

"We all realize that in district 63, like other school districts, there is a pressing seating problem," he said. "But what is the use of perpetuating an outmoded system. If this bylaw is passed and there are no changes in the present set-up, it will be the same thing all over again in three years, only the bylaw will be for more money."

The ratepayers' council has distributed throughout the district some 3,700 copies of a printed sheet outlining their opposition to the bylaw.

Members groups are Deep Cove Property Owners' Association, North Sidney Property Owners' Association, Sidney Village Property Owners' Association, Ardmore and West Mt. Newton Property Owners' Association, and Mt. Newton and Central Saanich Property Owners' Association.

$55,000 Shortage Seen

Mail Dollar or Two Chest Officials' Plea

Final Effort Asked To Overcome Failure

Failure of the Community Chest to reach its goal was translated yesterday into terms of failure to meet human needs, and directors and agency delegates who heard the worrying summation called for a final effort.

They asked that all who can in the Greater Victoria area—even those who have already contributed—mail a dollar or two to the Chest.

BY 15 PER CENT

They were told, for instance, that if the campaign fails by 15 per cent, the Canadian Mental Health Association will have to deny rehabilitation services to 100 patients, that the Victorian Order of Nurses will have to give less care to 360 patients, and that the Community Welfare Council will have to reduce its important work of co-ordinating welfare activities by cutting its full-time staff to one instead of two.

The John Howard Society will have to dismiss a full-time caseworker and probably discontinue some of its parole work, the Silver Threads Service will lose an amount equivalent to the cost of maintaining its recreation centre, the St. Vincent de Paul Society will find itself unable in many cases to give prompt assistance to individuals and families in urgent need.

ACCOUNTS SIMILAR

The accounts were similar from the others of the Chest's 22 agencies.

Campaign chairman Bernard Van Aggelen estimated, according to the trend so far, that the drive will fall short of its target of $350,000 by at least $55,000.

(Total received to last night was $240,469, and the campaign ends this week.)

RAT RACE

As the alternative to the Chest raising the money required by its member agencies, he saw a return "to the rat race, each agency canvassing on its own."

That, he suggested, would be "grossly uneconomical for business people, and I don't think the agencies could get canvassers for 26 or 28 appeals a year."

The Chest, he said, seemed to be at a crossroad, and "it's entirely up to the public to make this kind of decision."

INCLINED TO AGREE

A. W. Toone, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labor Council, said he was inclined to agree with Mr. Van Aggelen that Victoria is not worse off than other communities in unemployment.

But because there is widespread unemployment in B.C., he said, "citizens who are able have that much more reason to do more."

Each citizen, he suggested, should be faced with the challenges that "you are not only asking that 22 agencies go out separately, but saying you don't care what happens to these people."

'Blackout' Driver Fined

The driver in the accident that plunged a large section of Victoria into darkness last Thursday evening was judged yesterday on his ability to drive and not on the damage the accident did.

John William Daviss, 1093 Foul Bay Road, pleaded guilty in city police court to a charge of impaired driving and Magistrate William Ostler imposed the usual fine, $250.

Results of the accident—in which Mr. 'Daviss's truck smashed a hydrant and knocked down a pole carrying high-tension lines—were "considerably more spectacular" than usual, the magistrate remarked, but there was no evidence that the impairment was greater than in any ordinary case before the court, and "I think it's the impairment we must consider."

He observed, however, that "there may be civil proceedings he will have to face."

Labor Raps McPhillips

'Scabby' Blast Draws Rebuke

Victoria MP A. DeB. McPhillips last night was sharply rapped by labor spokesman for using language "unbefitting a member of parliament."

Delegates to Victoria Labor Council endorsed action by secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone after reading a letter in which the city MP referred to the provincial government as "that scabby crowd across the bay."

Mr. McPhillips said in the letter addressed to the Sheet Metal Workers Local 276 and forwarded to the labor council: "What I cannot understand is that you fellows are willing to let that scabby bunch across the bay allow the Jubilee Hospital building to stand uncommenced—particularly when the public contributed a large sum and the government of Canada cheque stands ready."

DELEGATES HOOT

Delegates hooted with laughter at a point where Mr. McPhillip's letter said: "The fellows who are out of work are always close to my heart and I shall continue to do all I can to alleviate the present position in regard to unemployment."

He lashed out at newspapers, saying: "when you refer to my 'statements in the press' please be advised my statements bore no resemblance to the garbage conjured up by unprincipled journalism with which we are plagued in this (Victoria) area."

Mr. McPhillips also attacked Mr. Toone. He wrote that the VLC secretary-treasurer "came out of his funk hole . . . when he believed I had left for Ottawa . . . and levelled a blast at me through the columns of the local press. To his chagrin he found I was merely absent in Vancouver."

GLAD TO SNIPE

He told unionists: "You seem to be glad to snipe at the people who seek to do good . . . but you are short in putting the blame where blame is due."

VLC delegates decided to send copies of Mr. McPhillips' letter to Premier Bennett, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan and Liberal leader Ray Perrault. In Ottawa it will go to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Mr. Toone said in his reply addressed to the MP: "Your expressions are most unbecoming to a member of parliament, particularly in reference to the provincial government, let alone to myself."

UNFOUNDED IMPLICATION

The labor spokesman also denied the "entirely unfounded implication that I thought you were in Ottawa" when speaking to reporters and added that the misunderstanding could easily have been cleared up "if you had taken a minute while in Victoria to telephone me."

Knifer Slashes Three

By CHARLES THOMPSON

LAKE COWICHAN — Three men went to hospital and a fourth to jail following a wild stabbing affray in a sawmill cookhouse at neighboring Mesachie Lake last night.

One of the three East Indian victims of the apparently unprovoked attack was released from hospital after treatment for superficial knife wounds, but the other two were held for further treatment.

The attack came only a few days after Lake Cowichan RCMP were warned that one of the East Indian employees of Hillcrest Lumber Co. had been acting strangely and might become dangerous.

SEIZED GUNS

Police said they picked up a shotgun, rifle and hunting knife belonging to the man.

Treated for knife wounds in King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan were Malkit Singh Sangha, 33, Kaball Sing Sall, 45, and Jagir Singh Hayer, 40.

Police said they were holding one man but refused to disclose his identity and said he had not been formally charged. They said he would be examined by doctors sometime today.

The man is a former wrestler, police said, and has a record of mental illness.

Said Malkit Singh Sangha last night as he was about to undergo treatment for a deep cut in his right forearm, "We asked the police to do something because this man had been sick and miserable for the last couple of weeks—we knew something like this was going to happen."

COULDN'T ACT

His brother, Charn Sangha, 24, an eyewitness to the cookhouse attack, said, "That's right—we asked the police and they said they couldn't do anything until he did something."

Said the elder Sangha, "I was eating in the cookhouse and he came in with a knife—it was in his right hand.

"I didn't do anything to him so I wasn't worried—then as I looked at the knife he hit me hard on the nose with his left hand.

CUT ARM

"I got hold of his right hand but he bent the knife in and cut my right arm near the elbow.

"He has been miserable — tonight he just went wild."

He said he had seen his attacker in an argument in the afternon before the man left camp temporarily.

"He came back about six swearing at everybody. He got the knife from his room and came into the cookhouse."

SCARED OFF

Witnesses said Sangha was struggling with his attacker when his younger brother shouted and scared the man off.

Jagir Hayer accosted the knife-wielder outside the cookhouse and was slashed on the neck and back.

Camp foreman Kabal Sall received cuts in the hands when he disarmed the man a few seconds later.

Still in hospital last night, Hayer and Sangha were reported in good condition.

James Bay Stores Leased

Classes for Jobless To Start in January

Provincial education department will lease property in the James Bay area to house classes aimed at cutting down unemployment in the Greater Victoria area.

It is expected classes for jobless will start early in January.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said yesterday that four new stores, with a total floor space of 4,000 square feet, had been acquired by his department on Menzies Street. Some structural changes were necessary but these would be made immediately.

Classes in practical nursing, commerce and academic courses to raise workers to a Grade 10 standard of education will be held here.

Special allowances over and above unemployment insurance benefits will be paid to those attending the courses.

It has been found that the hardest hit by unemployment are the unskilled and uneducated and the courses have been arranged to raise standards of training and education.

CPR Silent On Ferries

CPR officials yesterday declined to make any comment on reports that the ferries Princess Joan and Princess Elizabeth will be sold to Greek interests for service in the Mediterranean. Tenders for purchase of the former "night boats" were opened Nov. 8 and spokesmen would say only the company's decision will be reported in due course.

Meeting Dec. 5 For Candidates

Saanich candidates seeking council seats in the December municipal elections will be invited to attend an all-candidate meeting Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. in Royal Oak School.

At a meeting of the Prospect Lake Community Association last night, members decided to join the Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association in sponsoring the meeting.

CPR to Cut Off Vancouver Run

J. N. Fraine, vice-president and general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, announced Wednesday night that the Vancouver-Victoria ferry run will not operate next summer.

A daily round-trip between Victoria and Seattle will continue.

Mr. Fraine said: "The Vancouver-Victoria service was insufficiently patronized last summer and, in order to ensure that the operation of the Seattle run will continue to be economically worthwhile in bringing United States tourists to Victoria, it was necessary to discontinue the losing portion of the triangle route.

"The surplus triangle vessel, either the Princess Marguerite or Princess Patricia, will be used on the Nanaimo route, replacing the Princess Elaine. The Princess Elaine will be retained as a standby unit, pending study of her future."

The summer service between Victoria and Seattle is expected to begin sometime in May.

Food Stall Requests Tea, Powdered Milk

Victoria Free Food Stall convener Mrs. E. E. Harper last night issued a special appeal for tea and powdered milk for the next stall day on Saturday.

She said response to a request for fresh vegetables was not as great as she had hoped and "we could use more." At present there are 250 needy families registered with the food stall.

Anyone wishing to donate to the stall should call Mrs. E. E. Harper at GR 4-1750. Contributions will be picked up.

More Classes Needed For 4 to 6-Year-Olds

Need for more kindergarten classes in grade schools was stressed by Mrs. Enid Webster, a well-known city kindergarten teacher, at meeting of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, Monday evening.

Only eight grade schools in the city have kindergartens at present, she pointed out, "and instruction is offered only every other week to the children even in these areas."

"The child with the advantage of kindergarten training develops good social behavior as his natural needs for companionship and mental development are met, also a readiness for instruction in the basic skills and the proper attitude and appreciation," Mrs. Webster said.

"There is no comparison in the higher grades between children who have had this kind of training and those who have not."

In conclusion, the speaker pointed out the need for properly trained instructors for pre-school and primary classes. "The best instruction should be available to all children between the ages of four and six."

Mrs. Ethel Bevan introduced the speaker and she was thanked by Miss Elizabeth Clements. Miss Ella Brett presided at the meeting and two new members were received, Miss Jean Caldwell-Smith and Mrs. Doris Ewer.

to nourish and protect the baby on a partly-skimmed milk formula

Morning Milk

If your doctor prescribes a partly-skimmed milk for your baby, ask your grocer for Morning. Morning is the only partly-skimmed evaporated milk that meets the rigid quality standards of the makers of Carnation.

Digestible: Morning is more digestible for many babies because the butterfat content has been reduced.

Nourishing: Morning is pure, fresh milk with all the natural food values so important to proper growth. Vitamin D — the sunshine vitamin — has been increased to 800 Units per pint.

Safe: Morning's quality is guaranteed by the strict laboratory controls of Carnation. And Morning is protected by a can that is specially designed for evaporated milk.

Economical: Morning — the partly-skimmed evaporated milk made by Carnation — gives you quality at an important saving. Compare prices today with other brands of partly-skimmed evaporated milk. You save up to 25%.

Use Morning for your cooking and coffee creaming, too!

Miss Sutherland Wed

At an evening ceremony in Emmanuel Baptist Church, Myrna Irene Sutherland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Sutherland and Frederick Lawrence Wooster, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wooster, exchanged marriage vows.

Rev. A. Hammill officiated and the church was decorated with chrysanthemums. Guest pews were marked with white chrysanthemums and heather.

Groom is goaltender for Victoria Luckies lacrosse team.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a full-length gown of taffeta with lily point sleeves and Chantilly lace yoke accented with sequins. A fingertip veil edged with sequins was held with a coronet. The bouquet was pink rosebuds, stephanotis and heather sent from Scotland.

Mrs. R. Showers was matron-of-honor and Miss Edna Wilson, the senior bridesmaid. They wore similar gowns of turquoise taffeta and chiffon. Junior bridesmaid, Miss Linda Sutherland, the bride's niece, wore a dress of salmon-pink taffeta. Bouquets were of pink and turquoise carnations.

Best man was Robert Showers and H. Sutherland and R. Barrieau acted as ushers.

A reception followed in Olde England Inn where the bride's uncle, E. Johnston, proposed the toast.

Before leaving for a honeymoon in states of Oregon and Washington Mrs. Wooster changed into a brown trotter length suit with beige and brown accessories. She wore a yellow rose corsage.

Here for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. B. Knox, Mr. and Mrs. E. Jonhston of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. A. MacPherson of Eureka, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Marzano and Mrs. A. Grecco of Tacoma; Mrs. E. Evans and Mr. B. Langkammer of Duncan; Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. J Sutherland and Mr. and Mrs. E. Johnston, Jr., of Nanaimo.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital will hold their annual fall bazaar and silver tea on Wednesday, Nov. 23, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., in the Nurses' Home. Mrs. George R. Pearkes will open the affair. Turkey-burgers will be sold at noon and tea from 2 to 5 p.m. Among those in charge are Mrs. G. M. Norrie, left; Mrs. Marie Adkisson, general convener; Mrs. L. F. Sim, Mrs. A. W. Boden and Mrs. B. M. Wells.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to the parents whose child was born blind was inadequate. A book by Helen Keller may be a comfort, but much more can be done for these people. May I tell you—so you can tell others?

Twelve years ago my husband (who was 23 at the time) was injured in an automobile accident. If left him totally blind. We thought it was the end of the world. We had the popular misconception that blind people were useless, and that there was no future beyond selling pencils or making brooms.

After a year of pure hell a friend told us about the New York State Commission for the Blind. We later learned that most states have a similar set-up for partially blind as well as the totally sightless. There are also private agencies which offer services free of charge.

With the help of an agency my husband went to college and got a master's degree in sociology. He now works with handicapped children. We lead a normal, productive life and have three fine sons.

Blindness is the end of one road of course—but the next road can be smooth and exciting as well, if people know where to go for help. In America no one needs to suffer as we did. Please, won't you pass this word along?—MRS. C. J.

Dear Mrs. C. J.: This letter will appear in 397 newspapers and millions of people will see it, thanks to you. It is service such as this that makes my work a genuine thrill. God bless you and my thanks for writing.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: I used to think you made up some of the letters in your column, but after this experience in our own family I would believe ANYTHING.

Our son went with a lovely girl for two years. The girl's father died when she was 13 and she and her mother were like sisters. We knew they were close—but we didn't realize they were crazy.

We should have known something was wrong when the mother moved to the college town and took a selling job to be near her daughter.

After graduation, B and J had a nice wedding. On the wedding night J complained of a sideache and headache. The next day she said her eyes hurt. That night her back ached. The next morning she left him a note saying she couldn't bear to think of her mother alone, so she had taken the bus home.

What can our son do?—SHOCKED PARENTS.

Dear Shocked Parents: The only thing your son can do is to get his wife(?) to a psychiatrist. He can't force her to go, however; she'd have to consent—and this may be a real problem.

People often disguise sick behavior under such fancy labels as "filial love" and "family devotion." If the girl won't get help, he should see his clergyman and a lawyer — in that order.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANNDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Now—a diet plan you can stick to!

MinVitine—
the new sustaining meal that you drink. Lets you lose pounds quickly and safely while satisfying your appetite!

WITH MinVitine, developed by scientists at the famous Ovaltine Laboratories, you can lose unwanted pounds. Read how you achieve the weight you want without counting calories, while helping to maintain your health and satisfying your appetite!

Almost any diet plan can take off weight, but if you have ever tried to diet, you know that staying with the plan is the big problem. The scientists at the Ovaltine Laboratories were aware of this—so as specialists in nutrition, they developed this remarkable new diet food—MinVitine. It gives you satisfying nourishment at your regular meal times, yet cuts down on weight-building calories. In fact, MinVitine furnishes only 900 calories per day!

MinVitine comes in a jar which contains enough for three meals and a bedtime snack. MinVitine is more than just an appetite appeaser, different from a "bulk without nourishment" food. You simply mix it with cold water, making a delicious drink with a texture much like a malted milk. This is your MinVitine "meal", one that contains only 225 calories, yet supplies you with minerals and vitamins and the nourishment you need while on your diet plan.

You'll be delighted to see how quickly and steadily you lose weight when you use MinVitine according to directions. And you'll find it's easy to stay on your MinVitine Diet Plan because it helps satisfy your appetite. When you have achieved the weight-level you want, it's simple to stay there. Continue MinVitine by using the plan one or two days a week.

Naturally, it's wise for anyone who is dieting, or considering it, to keep in touch with his physician. Today, more and more people are turning to diets which help maintain good nutritional health, like the MinVitine Plan, under the guidance of their doctors.

You'll find new MinVitine at food and drug stores. It comes in three delicious flavors—chocolate, butterscotch and wonderful new coffee! Look for it. MinVitine is the diet plan you can stick to. You know it's good because it comes from the makers of Ovaltine!

Pastries a Sell-Out

Some of the most exotic pastries and cakes in town tempted visitors to the Hadassah's 10th annual bazaar Wednesday afternoon in the Sirocco. This society, well-known for excellence in cooking, devoted the whole centre of the ballroom to bakery items and home cooking.

During the afternoon and evening, Israeli films were shown in a lower room by Mr. Young of the Canadian Film Board. In charge of tickets for the films were Mrs. L. M. Green, Mr. A. E. Alexandor and Mr. A. Gordon.

Convener of the affair was Mrs. J. Burnett, and president, Mrs. Jack Krasney received guests.

In charge of various stalls were: spirit dolls, Miss Jenny Albahouse; afghan raffle, Mr. Leon Shaffer; copper picture raffle, Mr. A. Libby; handicrafts, Mrs. A. Libby, Mrs. M. Raels, Miss Donna Krasney; skirt and sweater bar, Mrs. J. Rose; used clothing, Mrs. A. Klenman and Mrs. E. Carr.

Flowers and fruit were sold by Mrs. A. Gordon; penny parade, Mrs. H. Bateman and Mrs. Leon Shaffer; lucky dip, Miss Florence Bramwell and Miss Shirley Menkes.

The bake table was handled by Mrs. A. E. Alexandor, Mrs. S. H. Levy, Mrs. R. Rose, Mrs. M. Menkes, Mrs. H. Kramer, Mrs. L. Jacobs, Mrs. I. Alexandor, Mrs. L. Black and Miss G. Cohn.

Tea was served by Mrs. J. Burnett, Mrs. H. Israels, Mrs. R. Krasney, Mrs. H. Marks and Mrs. R. Gray.

At 7.30 p.m. an auction was held in the ballroom.

8 CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to all our friends and neighbors for their messages of sympathy and beautiful floral tributes during the loss of our dear husband and father, Harold Rowbottom. Special thanks to nurses on 2A, St. Joseph's Hospital, also Dr. Paul and Rev. Dr. McLean.—Mrs. Nora Rowbottom.

Mr. Harold Raybone and family wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful tributes received from friends in our sad bereavement in the loss of our beloved wife and mother. Special thanks to Rev. Canon Willis, all pallbearers and Sands Mortuary Limited.

The family of the late Capt. G. O. Hughes wish to thank their many friends for the beautiful floral offerings, letters and cards sent in the loss of a loving husband and father.
—Mrs. Rhoda Hughes and son.

9 IN MEMORIAM

HOLDSWORTH—Ever cherished and loving memory of a dear mother and Nana, Ethel Holdsworth, who passed away Nov. 17, 1959.
Her loving smile, her heart of gold,
The beautiful memories she left us all.
Softly these leaves of memory fall
Gently we gather and treasure them all.
Unseen, unheard, she is always near,
Still loved, still missed and very dear.
—In the garden of memory we meet each day. Sadly missed. Marjorie, Alf and Sandra.

HOLDSWORTH—In loving memory of our dear Mom, Ethel Holdsworth, who passed away Nov. 17, 1959.
"Never shall the one we love
From our memory fade away."
—Always remembered and sadly missed by Herman and Edythe, Leslie and Edna.

LENCH—In cherished and loving memory of my dear Mother, Mrs. Martha Lench, who passed away in Edmonton, Nov. 17, 1939.
A wonderful Mother you were to me,
Loving and kind in all your ways;
Your lovely smile and a heart of gold,
One who was better, God never made.
One in a million, that mother was you,
There's still an ache in my heart today
That countless years will never take away;
My eyes are dim as I whisper low,
Oh, darling Mother, how I miss you so.
For the days I do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
You know how I love you, and, yes, love you yet.
Though God took you from me,
I cannot forget.
—Sadly missed by her loving daughter, Violet Tomlinson, and granddaughter, Joan.

TV TALK

"Communism versus Democracy" as a subject to be taught to seniors in U.S. high schools will be subject of a 30-minute discussion program on Channel 4 Sunday at 10 a.m.

Seattle students at a leadership conference held last spring voted strongly to include such a program in the curriculum. Student spokesman on the panel will be Bruce Beard, a senior at Roosevelt High School and a member of the inter-high council.

Other panel member will be Capt. Kenneth J. Sanger, commanding officer of the Sand Point Naval Air Station. Program moderator is Marty Camp. There will be a repeat telecast over Channel 4 at 7.30 a.m., Nov. 24.

"Besides Jack Paar, what do we have in common?"

Thursday's Highlights

12 Noon—Speech from the Throne at the opening of Parliament—6. Repeat at 9 p.m.

7.30 p.m.—Bitter Harvest, an hour-long documentary concerning the migrant worker—5. Football. Cloverdale vs. Glacier—13.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

Before taking any action at the bridge table, ask yourself: "What do I stand to gain, and what can I lose?" Blinded by his apparent wealth, South failed to pause for that question, and it proved costly in today's deal.

North was wise to pass South's opening bid. There could be little point in showing a poor four-card spade suit. Too bad that South failed to show similar restraint. Over East's spade bid, a takeout double would have described South's hand nicely. North would have bid one no-trump, two clubs or two diamonds, and nothing much would have happened. Nobody would double, and North would probably make his contract. South's two heart call was surely asking for trouble, and West gladly obliged.

East won the spade king and fired back a heart. South took the ace, led the club ace and the club queen, ducked by East. The third club was taken by East's king, and another heart was led. South went up with the king and played the ace and a small diamond. West won the king and returned a diamond to East's queen. East cashed the spade ace and continued spades. South was lucky to get one more trump trick because West was endplayed.

North was far from pleased with a score of minus 500 on a hand with which East-West couldn't make anything. And who can blame him?

Christmas Seals Give TB Check To 18,000 Here

More than 18,000 Greater Victoria residents were screened during the past year by the BC tuberculosis survey team.

The survey was part of a continuing province-wide program of free tuberculin skin-testing and chest X-rays jointly supported by government funds and much of the money raised by the annual sale of Christmas Seals, now underway.

Further major surveys planned in B.C. under "Operation Doorstep" for 1961 include the Alberni Valley.

New Zealand

Labor Cabinet Fighting For Its Life

AUCKLAND (CP) — The only Labor government now in power in the Commonwealth will be fighting for its life in the New Zealand general election set for Nov. 26.

Veteran Prime Minister Walter Nash, his vigor unimpaired despite his 79 years, opened the campaign officially Oct. 31 with Labor's keynote policy speech.

Keith J. Holyoake, National party leader and a former prime minister, launched his party's campaign two days later.

A general election is required by law every three years in New Zealand and this Parliament has run its full course. That it has done so is little short of a political miracle.

In the last general election in 1957, Labor ousted the former National government by the narrowest possible margin, winning 41 seats in the House of Representatives to 39 for National. With the election of a speaker, Labor was left with a 40-39 margin.

Because of heavy taxes imposed shortly after it gained office, Labor incurred wide unpopularity and early in its term a byelection in any but the safest Labor seat could have meant the fall of the government.

NO BYELECTION

But the Labor government has been fortunate in avoiding the need for a byelection in any of its seats. The one byelection that occurred during the life of Parliament was in a National-held seat.

Both Labor and National will be contesting all 80 parliamentary seats. So will the Social Credit party, which won 11 per cent of the popular vote in 1954 and seven per cent three years ago. It has never won a seat in Parliament, however, and few people believe it will this year.

DECIDEDLY RIGHT

Ostensibly, the lection will be fought on the issues of socialism versus free enterprise. In point of fact, however, the Labor party is decidedly right wing for a socialist party, and the National party is far more liberal in outlook than conservative groups in most countries.

So the difference in political outlook is far more in emphasis and degree of belief in controls and restrictions.

Legendary Pioneer

'Dinkum' Aussie Fading Out

By RUSSELL ELMAN

CANBERRA (CP)—Ask an Australian to paint a national self-portrait and the odds are he'll describe his country as a land of easy-going rugged individualists where Jack is as good as his master.

A "dinkum" Aussie, he may add, speaks his own mind, gives himself no airs, hates to be servile, dislikes to conform to regulations and relishes his freedom. In short, a good-natured rough diamond combining the best qualities of the now legendary outback pioneer and the British working man.

TRADITIONAL OPINION

In the context of postwar Australia's dynamic progress, this traditional opinion may be open to revision. Attitudes nurtured in a pioneering, pastoral country may not fit the pattern of today's complex urbanized society.

For most Australians now live in cities and have little contact with the so-called "real" Australia of the outback; their exclusive British homogeneity has been diluted with the influx of 800,000 European immigrants and their inbred belief in individual liberty is offset by an unmistakable increase in governmental authority.

STATES' RIGHTS

In theory Australians enjoy a greater degree of decentralized government than Canadians. The constitution on paper delegates to the federal government only certain defined fields of authority—external affairs, trade, defence, national revenue — with residual powers belonging to the six states. In 60 years of confederation there have been few formal amendments and proposed constitutional reforms — to be studied again this year—are habitually defeated when put to voters in a national referendum.

Yet today the federal government's power is virtually supreme because it controls the purse strings of the country, a situation brought about in two world wars and the economic depression of the 1930s and legalized through court interpretations of the constitution. Pleas of state premiers for state rights on the grounds that Australia is a union of sovereign states tend to carry more emotional than practical force.

Canberra is gradually being accepted as a true national capital, not merely the seat of parliament. The large defence department is moving its headquarters from Melbourne to Canberra, many national associations are establishing head offices in the capital and a multi-million dollar national capital development program, along the lines of Ottawa, is under way.

Sydney and Melbourne still dispute their respective claims to being the commercial or entertainment capital of Australia, while all state capitals indulge in friendly competition. This frequently vociferous rivalry, emphasized by sharp climatic variations and the playing of different codes of football in each state, heighten an impression of regionalism. This is more apparent than real and a Queenslander seems to share a more distinctive national outlook with his distant West Australian brother than perhaps a Newfoundlander does with a British Columbian.

Club to Finance $102,000 Project

PENTICTON (CP)—Penticton Kiwanis Club has decided to finance a $102,000 senior citizens' housing project by itself. The club had previously intended to canvass for the money. The club's immediate goal is $5,500. When 10 per cent of the total has been raised, the provincial government will grant one-third.

At the Gallery

Second Look Improves Art

By INA D. D. UHTHOFF

It sometimes happens that the paintings one likes best on a first visit to an exhibition do not hold up to a second scrutiny. They have given their all at first glance.

But subsequent visits to the "Purchase" collection at the Art Gallery disclose paintings that grow more and more powerful, some of them by young artists now coming to the fore in both eastern and western Canada.

In the eastern group, the work of Tony Urquhart of Niagara Falls is on its way to becoming important in Canadian painting. Though one may not be carried away by his two canvases in this show, "Giant Shield" and "Leaf Spirit," they give promise of big things to come.

The same may be said of the work of Pierre Gendron of Montreal and Paris. He has come a long way in the past few years, but his work has not by any means reached maturity. In his "Landscape in Brown" there is some fine, vigorous painting, but there is an unsatisfying thinness in the central passages.

"Equilibre," his second canvas, has been painted with white hot enthusiasm. It is a richer thing than "Landscape in Brown," succulent in paint quality but disturbing in its lack of all-over unity.

Lucien Morin is another young eastern painter, from Quebec this time. He has sent a small and relatively unimportant gouache painting of "automatic" genre entitled "Avalanche" which has a distinct charm of its own.

★ ★ ★

In the more mature and well-established group of painters, it is good to see the two canvases by Jock MacDonald, who for so long has been showing a preference for water color. "Phantom Land" and "Twilight Forms" dictate a fresh approach on the part of this important artist.

I find the canvases of Ghitta Caisermann less stimulating than much of her work that I have seen. She had a difficult problem in "Dreams," which is painted with great subtlety but has an all-over drabness. "Parade," on the other hand, has strength and some fine painting in the figures.

Third Ranch In B.C. Sold to U.S.

KAMLOOPS (CP)—A third large British Columbia ranch has been sold to American interests.

The 17,000-acre Willow Ranch between here and Merritt has been sold to Philip N. McKenna of Pennsylvania for an undisclosed price.

The ranch, noted for its good hay and grass, covers 17,000 acres under deed and lease and includes open range, springs, lakes and shaded parklands. It was owned by Tony Bellos.

Earlier this year the 19,000-acre Casorso Ranch, near Kelowna was sold to U.S. interests for a price reported in excess of $400,000.

4-H Winners Get Prizes Won at Fair

Saanich Jersey 4-H Calf Club members were presented trophies and prize money recently which they won in exhibitions during the Saanichton fall fair at the recent annual banquet of the Saanich Jersey Cattle Club.

Successful in winning three trophies was Jacqueline Rosman. She was awarded the Wally Williams judging trophy, Cowichan Leader judging trophy, and achievements trophy for 15-year-olds and over.

Also presented cups were: Robert Evans, achievement cup for 14-year-olds and under; Joan Youell, a cup for the best Jersey calf; and Reg Hoole, a cup for the best yearling heifer.

Youthful Pianist, Cellist Applauded by Victorians

By BERT BINNY

Pianist Janet Thom and cellist David Dahlstrom were enthusiastically received by a full house at the War Amputees' Hall on Oak Bay Avenue last night.

Every year the Registered Music Teachers' Association sponsors a tour for two young musicians to afford the artists experience on the concert platform and to give audiences the chance to hear those who may well be the virtuosi of the future.

WON AWARD

Miss Thom, from Vancouver, is not a complete stranger to Victoria. She won the city's top piano award in 1956. At the start of the program last night her touch seemed occasionally uncertain but, with d'Allessandro's third sonata, her second item, she was thoroughly at home, firm and crisp.

Mr. Dahlstrom is a sensitive cellist. Brahms' sonata in E-minor is never child's play but the young artist gave it a delightfully melodious interpretation.

UNFORTUNATE

It was unfortunate that, in the louder passages, the piano tended to drown out the cello.

Other items on the program were drawn from the works of Saint-Saens, W. H. Squire, Chopin and Smetana.

Bugler Deserts To Rock 'n' Roll

Names in the News

DEAL, England—A Royal Marine bugler who tired of tooting taps and went AWOL to become a rock 'n' roll star in Canada and the U.S. was jailed for a year.

Garry James Gillman, 24, disliked the bugle and lived only for guitar playing, the court martial was told.

In Canada last year with the Royal Marines band, the father of four took over a rock 'n' roll band to pay off debts of £130. He went on to more success in the U.S, and was arrested when he returned to Canada.

Gillman was ordered to forfeit his good conduct badge.

Show Business

By Dick Williams

Gordon and Shelia MacRae will never forget their "Redhead" opening in Warwick, R.I., last summer. During a duet, they heard people laughing in one corner of the tent in which the show was housed.

Before long the laughter spread until the entire audience was chuckling audibly. Both were ill at ease, but they finished their number.

The audience stood and applauded for a full three minutes, but still the MacRaes didn't know what had befallen them.

When the applause ceased, another actor walked up to them, spoke his line and then whispered to Gordon. "They weren't laughing at you. You were sharing the stage with a skunk."

Socialite Blames 'Slip' in Shooting

ST. JEROME, Que. (UPI) — Socialite Mrs. Beverley Ann Van Horne Weary, facing a manslaughter charge in connection with the fatal shooting of Clifford Bruce Bridger at her St. Adele home during a long-drawn-out drinking party last May 15, said in the statement yesterday that she was not even aware at the time that the rifle she was carrying had discharged.

She said she was unaware that Bridger was on the wet porch when she slipped while going to investigate a noise which she thought was that of an approaching car.

Last-Day Substitute Singer Shines as Guest at Recital

Second in a series of recitals at Christ Church Cathedral took place last night.

Scheduled to appear as guest artist with cathedral organist Richard Proudman, soprano Peggy Walton Packard was forced to cancel her appearance due to laryngitis.

Her program was undertaken by Ruth Champion on about 10 hours' notice, forcing rehearsal and performance through afternoon and evening. But, with items from Handel, Schubert, Mozart, Little and Scott, her contribution was completely successful.

Next recital is Dec. 7 when guest artist will be contralto Eleanor Ashford.

Police Slapping Begging Hands

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police are cracking down on panhandlers, whose numbers have been rapidly increasing here recently. Two unemployed men were charged with begging after being observed asking citizens for money.

U.S. Put Lid on War Ace's Book

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Gregory (Pappy) Boyington, Second World War U.S. Marine flying ace, yesterday accused the state department of putting a lid on circulation of his new book until after the presidential election because of the Quemoy-Matsu island issue.

He also charged that Chiang Kai-shek and Madame Chiang have turned the offshore islands "into a trap to lure us onto the Chinese mainland to fight their fight for them."

Boyington wrote the best seller "Baa, Baa Blacksheep" and said his second book, "Tonya," was on its way to becoming a best-seller when the state department stepped in.

He said his book is a "slightly fictionalized" story of China in 1940 and the Flying Tigers with which he flew.

"We're recognizing a fictional country," he said, "when the United States recognizes Nationalist China with less than 1,000,000 people and ignores Red China on the mainland with its 700,000,000."

He openly charged that Chiang helped sell the Japanese fuel during the Chinese-Japanese war, and then sold "the Communists munitions as the Red threat was looming against her own government."

He said that Nationalist China "has more lobbyists working in their behalf in Washington, D.C., than the largest of foreign nations have."

WHALING TOLL

More than 20,000 sperm whales, valued for special quality oil, are killed in the oceans each year.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor breath". Get FASTEETH at drug counters everywhere. Advt.

SERVANTS SEVER BONDS WITH ORGANIZED LABOR

This is the kind of stately timbers which skirt Kennedy River and the west coast road to Tofino, and which only an immediate public outcry can save from the loggers' power saws.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

—(Colonist photos by Alec Merriman.)

This scarred Kennedy River shoreline is what will be seen all along the west coast road to Tofino, unless something is done to stop the march of the loggers' power saws on the narrow strips of timber between the river and the road.

Loggers Rush To Ruin Drive

★ ★ ★

Only Outcry Can Save It

★ ★ ★

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Outdoors Editor

It is too late to save all the timber that stands in narrow strips along the Kennedy River on the west coast road from Tofino.

The loggers have felled a lot of it in recent weeks and appear to be chopping away at it in mad haste before the public and government realize one of North America's greatest potential scenic drives is being ruined.

But, there is still time to save some of it.

OUTCRY NEEDED

The loggers' power saws have felled much of the timber along the roadside and river banks, but there is still some left and only a public outcry . . . and a very early one at that . . . can save the rest of the stately timber, as the logging companies are pushing relentlessly on.

It is true MacMillan and Bloedel owns the timber through timber licences and that the Crown owns the land, but surely some exchanges or arrangements can be made to save these narrow strips of timber along the river banks which add so much to the scenic west coast drive. Not too much actual timber is involved.

For 23 miles the west coast road follows the Taylor and Upper Kennedy Rivers, sometimes 100 yards from it, sometimes 50 yards and sometimes only a stone's throw away. The road was, and still is, in parts, skirted by stately cedars, the like of which the public now seldom has an opportunity to see. It is like a narrow Cathedral Grove for miles and miles.

The scenic quality of the drive surely is unparalleled on this continent . . . and it is being spoiled, largely because of the inaction of the government, specifically Forests Minister Ray Williston and Recreation Minister Earle Westwood, to take some action to preserve the roadside timber strips.

LET IT HAPPEN

They were warned by this paper, and personally by others, Recently Premier Bennett called on Ottawa for a joint five-year program to blacktop the west coast road. At the same time as he was proposing this wonderful program, two of his ministers were allowing the scenic value of the road to be despoiled.

On July 3 an article in this paper read, in part: "The road gives terrific vistas of all four arms of Sproat Lake and follows Taylor and Kennedy Rivers for miles. Tall, stately cedars and Douglas firs straddle the road and maples hang over the river banks.

"There are waterfalls, clear deep green pools right beside the road, and fast-running rapids. It was obvious to us that the government must try to acquire all the strips of land between the roadway and the rivers. These for the most part are narrow, but would provide an almost unbroken chain of scenic spots."

HEARTRENDING SCENE

It was heartrending to drive out over that road last Sunday and see the desecration had already started.

The provincial recreation department already has a three-mile park reserve along the Upper Kennedy River, which skirts both sides of the road, but unfortunately lack of foresight saw logging operations take place along the road through this reserve, and much, although not all, of the scenic quality, apparent in the other areas, has already been destroyed in the parkland.

Our Sunday drive showed that in some areas the logging company is leaving a one or two-tree strip along the riverbank which preserves some beauty, but in other areas it was taking all the logs.

In Canadian Forum, a new feature which begins today on Page 5, The Daily Colonist presents a series of provocative articles highlighting problems, hopes and possible solutions in local, national or international matters.

Distinguished experts in a wide range of endeavors are included in Vancouver Island's cosmopolitan population. From this group a panel has been formed to contribute a weekly article on fields in which these distinguished residents are specialists.

Political Action Reason for Move

The 1,800-member Victoria branch of the B.C. Government Employees' Association has finally broken its ties with organized labor over the issue of political action.

Formal action to end its affiliation with Victoria Labor Council was taken last night by labor delegates at the request of the local BCGEA branch.

REASON FOR BREAK

The reason given for the break was the Nov. 2 decision by VLC delegates to form a political action group to assist labor candidates in the forthcoming civic elections and in the federal by-election in Esquimalt-Saanich.

Civil servants' local membership approved a resolution which said "in our opinion (this) commits Victoria Labor Council to direct political action, which is against our constitution, therefore this branch should disaffiliate."

EXTREME RELUCTANCE

An accompanying letter, signed by branch secretary J. A. Hawes said: "It is with extreme reluctance that we take this action."

VLC secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone told delegates "it would appear the local BCGEA branch executive more or less had made their minds up on this matter . . . they didn't wish to have a delegate or officer of this council discuss the situation with them before final action was taken."

EVERYTHING IN POWER

He said BCGEA delegates to the local council did everything in their power to maintain the tie with organized labor.

One former BCGEA delegate said in a letter read last night he regretted the loss of "what we consider was a very valuable and rewarding association."

Recently, after the government stopped check-off of BCGEA dues from the payroll, the association's provincial officials requested temporary suspension of per capita dues to the labor group until a vote was taken among the membership.

Nixon Wins California

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The certain margin by which Sen. John Kennedy won the U.S. presidency was slashed last night to 31 electoral votes when a surge of absentee ballots put Vice-president Nixon ahead in his native California.

"Nixon, 35,270 votes behind when California began its count of more than 200,000 absentee ballots last weekend, went ahead by 13,160 with 20,000 left to count.

Question of who gets California's 32 electoral votes may not be settled until the results are officially certified Dec. 15.

Should Nixon hold California, Kennedy would be sure of getting only 300 of the 537 electoral votes. Majority needed for election is 269.

Shun Politics Or Risk Job —Lindsay

By PETER BRUTON

A senior provincial civil servant startled a cabinet luncheon honoring himself and his colleagues yesterday with a blunt warning that government employees were risking their jobs if they didn't steer clear of politics.

George Lindsay, B.C. superintendent of motor vehicles, used the recent U.S. and Quebec provincial elections as examples of what could happen here.

50-60 PER CENT

"The so-called civil service of those governments, and there are others, had entertained the propositions of the body politic," he said. "On the defeat of their party there were over 50 to 60 per cent discharged from the service."

He asked his colleagues to warn their "juniors" that the advantage of B.C.'s civil servants were great compared with what others were receiving elsewhere.

NOT FOR MOMENT

"Let us not for one moment give consideration to other than our loyalty to the government which I believe is just at all times," he said.

Mr. Lindsay made his remarks during a speech of thanks to Premier Bennett and the cabinet for tendering a luncheon to 30 civil servants from Vancouver Island who had served the government for more than 25 years.

IN JEOPARDY

Mr. Lindsay said after comparing what B.C. civil servants receive in benefits from the government "and what little" other government employees elsewhere in North America receive he was concerned that "we in the civil service are placing ourselves in jeopardy."

There was a danger that they would lose the recognition and advantages won over a number of years, he said.

B.C. civil servants will vote shortly to decide if they will continue to remain affiliated with the B.C. Federation of Labor which in turn is affiliating with the CCF.

FUTURE BRIGHT

Mr. Lindsay said the future of B.C. was bright and that he hoped "each of you will make this proposition clear to your juniors."

White Mob Runs Wild

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A mob of 5,000 persons, mostly teen-agers fired up by mothers and segregationist leaders, ran wild in downtown New Orleans yesterday. Police turned fire hoses on them and charged into them with motorcycles.

The demonstration was set off by the call of segregationists for a "civil disobedience" campaign against the integration of two formerly all-white elementary schools by four six-year-old Negro girls.

After an hour of being drenched by the stinging hoses and dodging three-wheeled motorcycles, the mob broke up into knots of demonstrators who roamed about stoning buses and cars in which Negroes were riding.

Police seized more than 35 demonstrators and hauled them off to headquarters. They were immediately "paroled" out of police custody and some rejoined the demonstration.

SCHOOLS EMPTIED

The deep-running feeling against integration almost emptied the two schools. A total of 21 white pupils attended the two schools today. Normal white attendance totals 1,043.

Police had to pull down their guard from the schools to fight the mob a few blocks away. The mob, screaming and waving Confederate flags, marched on the school board

"Two, four, six, eight, we don't wanna integrate," the mob roared. Firemen broke out the hoses and a public address system warned the crowd to break up or be hosed down.

"TURN ON WATER"

"Turn on the water, turn on the water," ringleaders screamed, advancing on the truck. The firemen did.

"They've gone berserk," shouted a patrolman as he seized two teen-agers and searched them. "There's at least 5,000 of them."

'Safety' Bus Runs Off

OTTAWA (CP)—A nine-ton, 40-passenger army bus with nobody in it rolled away from its parking place near defence headquarters Wednesday, down a 15-foot embankment and through a concrete-iron fence, halting with its front wheels over the Rideau Canal.

The bus was taking participants to an armed forces safe driving contest.

Astute soldiers removed from the side of the bus a big sign proclaiming the competition, before photographers arrived. The bus apparently was left parked without the brakes on and out of gear.

CLARK GABLE

Clark Gable Dies at 59

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Clark Gable, the "king" of Hollywood, died last night at the age of 59.

The strapping he-man with the big grin and big ears had been one of the greatest movie idols the world has ever known from the time he became a star in the early 1930s.

He suffered a heart attack Nov. 6 at his Encino home and was taken to hospital for an extended rest after emergency treatment. His wife Kay is expecting his first child early next year.

Teller Stole to Meet Ailing Mother's Bills

HAMILTON, Ont. (UPI) — A tearful, 21-year-old former bank teller testified yesterday that she embezzled $7,750 from her bank to pay her mother's hospital bills.

The ex-teller, Darlene Burns, was remanded to jail for sentence for stealing the money from the Toronto-Dominion Bank over a three-year period.

Her mother, Mrs. Gordon Burns, who walks with the aid of two canes, also wept and had to be assisted from the courtroom.

Magistrate Walter Tuchtie remanded the woman after defence counsel John Sullivan pleaded: "Please temper justice with mercy."

Harry Crawford, manager of the bank branch, said Miss Burns confessed before auditors turned up the shortages.

A psychiatrist, Dr. Harvey Blair, testified that the young woman had been handling the family's finances since the age of 12 when she first started working, selling fruit.

Before the hearing Miss Burns had been free on $5,000 bail.

Dr. Blair said she had a "terrible fear" of being imprisoned.

Attack Starts on B.C. Sunday Jobs

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Lord's Day Alliance plans a probe into work on Sundays in business and industry.

Rev. H. T. Allen, head of the Alliance in B.C., says main targets will include pulp mills and pipeline companies going seven days a week.

Aim of the province-wide probe was to wipe out all unnecessary work on Sundays, if necessary through court action. A committee of labor, business and industrial officials was being formed to conduct the investigation.

"We'll seek ways to eliminat unnecessary work, possibly by recommending extra shifts be hired to get the work done during the week," said Mr. Allen.

The Lord's Day Act forbids all Sunday work except that needed for public protection or essential services.

Mr. Allen charged management resorts to a form of bribery in offering extra pay to workers to overcome their unwillingness to work Sundays.

Tomcat Sets Off Neighborly Spat

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Okay, so Herman's not a cool cat, but is it his fault that he's got more appeal than the neighborhood can handle?

Herman, a tomcat, lives with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bowler of Almeda, defendants in a suit brought by neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cook.

The Cooks, who raise Siamese cats, claim Herman is a nuisance to their felines. The Cooks want $3,500 damages and surgery that will help keep Herman at home.

The Bowlers, in a countersuit, deny the charges and declare the Siamese cats just won't leave Herman alone.

Herman, the Bowlers said, is just "a red-blooded American tomcat, with the manly attributes and instincts of a tomcat of any nationality."

And those Siamese cats, the Bowlers added, have been scratching each other, fighting for Herman's attentions.

The Bowlers alleged the Cooks have kept as many as 50 Siamese and if anyone has been wronged it's Herman.

The Bowlers asked $1,500 damages from the Cooks and a restraining order against all those Siamese.

Pending the verdicts, Herman is under house arrest, barred from leaving his home.

Don't Scare Backers—BCE

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Electric Co. Wednesday asked the Public Utilities Commission for time to present a "full picture" of its earnings and rates.

The company also asked the PUC not to discourage Eastern investors by giving the impression that its earnings may be further restricted.

The plea came at a public hearing into the intention of the commission to scrap its 1952 ruling that 6.5 per cent is a "reasonable and fair" profit for the company to make.

The point at issue is the requirement of the commission that any rate increase be approved. This has been challenged by the company and the Supreme Court of Canada recently ruled that B.C. Electric could increase rates at will as Fraser Valley Association of Municipalities, White Rock and a representative of industry urged the commission to maintain control of the utility's rate structure.

Commission Chairman H. F. Angus said this could possibly long as it stayed within the percentage limit.

Vancouver, Victoria, the be done be removing the ceiling on earnings and simply requiring the company to submit proposed rate increase and prove they were fair and reasonable.

Terrence O'Grady, Victoria city solicitor, said the Supreme Court ruling would upset the PUC's control over rates.

"After all, the B.C. Electric is not a benevolent Association," he said. "It is in business to make a profit for its shareholders and is now charging all the traffic will bear."

No Deviation

Strict Control Imposed In Duncan Subdivision

DUNCAN—A year and a half ago a thin line of people spent a night on the steps of the city hall here in order to buy choice lots in B.C.'s first government-controlled luxury subdivision.

Early the following day 18 properties were sold as passersby shook their heads at the wonder of it all and predicted dire results because of building and landscaping restrictions.

FIRST IN B.C.

Yesterday C. J. Dowling, Victoria manager of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, one of the principals in the project, said 16 properties have been built upon in the 158-lot Centennial Subdivision, the first land assembly project of its type in the province.

He added, "Development has been a little slower than we anticipated. There have been a lot of people who gave us down payments and then for various reasons couldn't go ahead."

OPENLY REVOLTED

Have there been any persons who openly revolted against the stringent CMHC and city restrictions?

"One or two haven't liked some ideas, but when the aesthetic value has been explained—as against houses being plunked down willy-nilly—they have accepted the suggestions," said Al Bates, assistant CMHC manager.

In this subdivision CMHC planners have planned the positions of houses in each street, their place on the lots, the location of shubbery and style of house.

NO FENCES

The city added restrictions forbidding the construction of fences in front yards. Although there are asphalt roads, curbs, water, sewerage and street lighting, the city's restrictions forbid sidewalks.

Mr. Dowling said the grouping of houses and the planned use of trees is designed to get rid of "rows of box-like" houses seen in some subdivisions.

STRICT REGULATIONS

Construction is governed by the city, provincial and federal building codes. In each phase the strictest regulations are followed, said Mr. Bates.

He said that in Saanich and on the mainland there are developments similarly sponsored, but restrictions are relaxed to such an extent that builders are only obligated to conform to "minimum" requirements.

More Winter Work Seen for Cowichan

NORTH COWICHAN — Reeve Donald Morton said yesterday that a recent relaxation of categories of government-subsidized winter work will mean more municipal projects here.

He said it will probably permit further improvement to the municipal cemetery, a classification of work that the federal government would previously not share costs on.

At present a few men are working under the municipal winter works program clearing drainage and brush, but Reeve Morton explained that the municipality's winter work program is just getting underway.

He said projects so far approved would create 2,700 man-hours of work and a total cost of about $92,000.

He could not estimate the expected total cost of work to be done this winter.

Approved by the federal government is road work providing 2,000 man-hours to cost about $60,000 for brush cutting and other work on drainage systems.

Clearing of growth on water line right of ways and the replacement of water mains in Chemainus, Crofton and Maple Bay will provide 400 man-days of work at a cost of about $24,000.

About 300 man-days of work will be done on parks. Expected cost is $8,000.

Eskimo Life and Art Qualicum Talk Topic

QUALICUM BEACH — "The Eskimo Takes a Look at Us" was the title of an address given recently by Mrs. Irene Baird to members and guests of the Parksville-Qualicum Beach Canadian Club.

Mrs. Baird, senior information officer with the federal Department of Northern Affairs and Natural Resources, accompanied the Northwest Territories council which met at Resolute in the Arctic last July.

The council, made up of nine members and accompanied by the secretariat and an RCMP escort, met in a new one-room school for the week-long session.

Intense interest in affairs of the council by local Eskimos prompted the choice of title for Mrs. Baird's talk.

She found the high Arctic "a strange, ancient, magnetic land, and the Eskimos—a likable, independent, industrious people, with a great talent for stone carving and a developing place in the front ranks of the world's primitive art."

A new medium, recently introduced to the Eskimos at Cape Dorset—that of making sealskin prints — is rapidly gaining in popularity.

Many Hunters Expected At Campbell River

CAMPBELL RIVER — Hills and valleys of this game-rich area are expected to play host to a record number of Vancouver Island and lower mainland hunters this weekend with the opening of the antlerless deer season on Saturday.

The season on does and young bucks runs until December 6 and overlaps the season on antlered deer.

Extensive game checks will be made in the district during the short doe and yearling season to gauge its effect on the deer population.

Game biologists recommended the season on the basis that the present deer population is too large for the natural supply of forage. One of the results of the feed shortage has been smaller deer.

Chemainus Pit-Lamper Elects Term in Jail

CHEMAINUS — One of three men charged here with pit-lamping for deer has been convicted and has elected to spend 60 days in jail rather than pay a $500 fine.

He is Mickey Thomson, 21, resident here, who pleaded not guilty but was convicted before Magistrate R. H. Purdy, Nanaimo, and fined $500 or given the choice of a jail term.

One of his companions, Howard Clunk, also resident here, pleaded not guilty and was acquitted.

William Spalding, who also pleaded not guilty, is due to stand trial Dec. 6.

Thomson was also found guilty and sentenced to 30 days for having possession of a deer less than one year old. The sentences are to be served concurrently.

Uuemployment, Trade Overriding Issues

OTTAWA (CP)—After three months of rest, Parliament reconvenes today with the prospect of a long and arduous session in which the overriding issues will be unemployment, trade and Canada's growing economic subservience to the United States.

The Conservative government's plan for coping with some of these riddles may be revealed at 12.30 p.m. PST when Governor-General Vanier reads the throne speech to open the fourth session of the 24th Parliament.

Content of the speech has been one of the best-kept secrets in recent years. Normally there are several pre-session leaks. But there has been little time for these to emerge since the last eight-month session of Parliament was prorogued Aug. 10.

There are only the broad hints of cabinet ministers, the cautious word of sources close to the government, and sheer speculation. All of this points to one distinct possibility.

The government, while taking immediate stop-gap steps to cope with unemployment that has reached a post-war peak for this time of year, may also look to long-term measures to raise national productivity to the point where the labor force would no longer exceed the number of jobs available.

Civil Rights Probe Set By John D.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker hopes to carry his civil rights beliefs into a new parliamentary endeavor — a re-examination of all statutes and administrative orders-in-council for infringements on human rights and fundamental freedoms.

Whether the project will be tackled in the new session of Parliament opening Thursday may be revealed either in the throne speech or in Mr. Diefenbaker's own address Monday.

A committee on defence spending also may be established if opposition parties think another review of defence policy is needed, less than four months after its exhaustive study last summer.

Pearson to Move Monday To Cut Throne Speech

OTTAWA — Opposition Leader Hon. L. B. Pearson will move Monday to cut short the throne speech debate and call on the federal government to introduce into Parliament immediately its plans to cope with mounting unemployment.

"Surely any delay in dealing with this problem as we are approaching winter is inexcusable. The time now is for action and not words," Mr. Pearson said Wednesday night on the eve of the opening of the new parliamentary session.

He pointed out that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker had already declared that he had plans under way to be presented in detail at this session of Parliament to cope with the unemployment problem.

Five Ratepayer Groups Fight School Bylaw

Five ratepayers' organizations with a total of 2,700 members have banded together to fight the proposed $784,000 school building bylaw in rural Saanich.

A spokesman said the newly-formed ratepayers' council based its opposition on the contention that the bylaw to be voted on Saturday is simply a repetition of the one already defeated twice at the polls.

M. D. A. Darling said "strong resentment" is felt by ratepayers in the district at the failure of school board members in district 63 to agree to a public meeting to discuss points of criticism raised in letters to the board.

He said the "do-nothing" attitude of trustees in all probability will result in a third defeat for the bylaw to build new facilities for the overflow school population.

General agreement exists that more classroom space is needed, said Mr. Darling. But the ratepayers council objects to inclusion of frills and luxury items like "terrific auditoria" and "elaborite kitchens with $500 ranges to learn the art of making angel cake."

The group also called on the government to release immediately the Chant royal commission report on education, which Mr. Darling argued "must definitely have some bearing on school building costs."

"We all realize that in district 63, like other school districts, there is a pressing seating problem," he said. "But what is the use of perpetuating an outmoded system. If this bylaw is passed and there are no changes in the present set-up, it will be the same thing all over again in three years, only the bylaw will be for more money."

The ratepayers' council has distributed throughout the district some 3,700 copies of a printed sheet outlining their opposition to the bylaw.

Members groups are Deep Cove Property Owners' Association, North Sidney Property Owners' Association, Sidney Village Property Owners' Association, Ardmore and West Mt. Newton Property Owners' Association, and Mt. Newton and Central Saanich Property Owners' Association.

Port Alberni Building High

PORT ALBERNI—While construction activity fell off in most Vancouver Island and mainland communities this year it is still booming here.

Building figures in Port Alberni are well ahead of those recorded last year in the same period.

Other Island news see Pages 20, 21

Building inspector William Fraser reported to council that permits issued for the first 10 months of 1960 represented $2,310,246 in construction costs. Last year at the end of October the figure was $1,611,665.

Seven dwellings accounted for $83,000 of the October, 1960, figure of $309,650. The telephone exchange building, now under construction, accounted for another $210,000.

Last year in October building permits totalled $111,900.

COBBLE HILL — Thieves broke into two service stations and a builders' supply store early yesterday or Tuesday evening and got away with about $225 worth of goods.

At Crossroad Motors Ltd. the front door was forced and four tires, a 12-volt battery and $150 worth of power tools taken.

Next door at Pacific Builders' Supplies Co. Ltd. they smashed in a plate glass window to get about $5 worth of stamps. They ignored about $250 in small power tools.

At Ced's (CCT) Service Station the glass in the front door was broken.

DUNCAN — A junk dealer who police said could only pick up one of three pennies from a floor during sobriety tests was fined $200 and had his licence suspended for six months yesterday.

Frank S. Wilkin, 39, of Lake Cowichan, admitted to police that he had been drinking but thought he could have avoided any accidents.

Police followed him and claimed he weaved over the centre line and back onto the gravel on the right side of the road.

Also in court, Albert Erickson of Summit was fined $150 for driving while his licence was under suspension.

$55,000 Shortage Seen

Mail Dollar or Two Chest Officials' Plea

Final Effort Asked To Overcome Failure

Failure of the Community Chest to reach its goal was translated yesterday into terms of failure to meet human needs, and directors and agency delegates who heard the worrying summation called for a final effort.

They asked that all who can in the Greater Victoria area—even those who have already contributed—mail a dollar or two to the Chest.

BY 15 PER CENT

They were told, for instance, that if the campaign fails by 15 per cent, the Canadian Mental Health Association will have to deny rehabilitation services to 100 patients, that the Victorian Order of Nurses will have to give less care to 360 patients, and that the Community Welfare Council will have to reduce its important work of co-ordinating welfare activities by cutting its full-time staff to one instead of two.

The John Howard Society will have to dismiss a full-time caseworker and probably discontinue some of its parole work, the Silver Threads Service will lose an amount equivalent to the cost of maintaining its recreation centre, the St. Vincent de Paul Society will find itself unable in many cases to give prompt assistance to individuals and families in urgent need.

ACCOUNTS SIMILAR

The accounts were similar from the others of the Chest's 22 agencies.

Campaign chairman Bernard Van Aggelen estimated, according to the trend so far, that the drive will fall short of its target of $350,000 by at least $55,000.

(Total received to last night was $240,469, and the campaign ends this week.)

RAT RACE

As the alternative to the Chest raising the money required by its member agencies, he saw a return "to the rat race, each agency canvassing on its own."

That, he suggested, would be "grossly uneconomical for business people, and I don't think the agencies could get canvassers for 26 or 28 appeals a year."

The Chest, he said, seemed to be at a crossroad, and "it's entirely up to the public to make this kind of decision."

INCLINED TO AGREE

A. W. Toone, secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labor Council, said he was inclined to agree with Mr. Van Aggelen that Victoria is not worse off than other communities in unemployment.

But because there is widespread unemployment in B.C., he said, "citizens who are able have that much more reason to do more."

Each citizen, he suggested, should be faced with the challenges that "you are not only asking that 22 agencies go out separately, but saying you don't care what happens to these people."

Classes for Jobless To Start in January

Provincial education department will lease property in the James Bay area to house classes aimed at cutting down unemployment in the Greater Victoria area.

It is expected classes for jobless will start early in January.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said yesterday that four new stores, with a total floor space of 4,000 square feet, had been acquired by his department on Menzies Street. Some structural changes were necessary but these would be made immediately.

Classes in practical nursing, commerce and academic courses to raise workers to a Grade 10 standard of education will be held here.

Special allowances over and above unemployment insurance benefits will be paid to those attending the courses.

It has been found that the hardest hit by unemployment are the unskilled and uneducated and the courses have been arranged to raise standards of training and education.

Food Stall Requests Tea, Powdered Milk

Victoria Free Food Stall convener Mrs. E. E. Harper last night issued a special appeal for tea and powdered milk for the next stall day on Saturday.

She said response to a request for fresh vegetables was not as great as she had hoped and "we could use more."

At present there are 250 needy families registered with the food stall.

Anyone wishing to donate to the stall should call Mrs. E. E. Harper at GR 4-1750. Contributions will be picked up.

'Blackout' Driver Fined

The driver in the accident that plunged a large section of Victoria into darkness last Thursday evening was judged yesterday on his ability to drive and not on the damage the accident did.

John William Daviss, 1093 Foul Bay Road, pleaded guilty in city police court to a charge of impaired driving and Magistrate William Ostler imposed the usual fine, $250.

Results of the accident—in which Mr. Daviss's truck smashed a hydrant and knocked down a pole carrying high-tension lines—were "considerably more spectacular" than usual, the magistrate remarked, but there was no evidence that the impairment was greater than in any ordinary case before the court, and "I think it's the impairment we must consider."

He observed, however, that "there may be civil proceedings he will have to face."

Knifer Slashes Three

By CHARLES THOMPSON

LAKE COWICHAN — Three men went to hospital and a fourth to jail following a wild stabbing affray in a sawmill cookhouse at neighboring Mesachie Lake last night.

One of the three East Indian victims of the apparently unprovoked attack was released from hospital after treatment for superficial knife wounds, but the other two were held for further treatment.

The attack came only a few days after Lake Cowichan RCMP were warned that one of the East Indian employees of Hillcrest Lumber Co. had been acting strangely and might become dangerous.

SEIZED GUNS

Police said they picked up a shotgun, rifle and hunting knife belonging to the man.

Treated for knife wounds in King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan were Malkit Singh Sangha, 33, Kaball Sing Sall, 45, and Jagir Singh Hayer, 40.

Police said they were holding one man but refused to disclose his identity and said he had not been formally charged. They said he would be examined by doctors sometime today.

The man is a former wrestler, police said, and has a record of mental illness.

Said Malkit Singh Sangha last night as he was about to undergo treatment for a deep cut in his right forearm, "We asked the police to do something because this man had been sick and miserable for the last couple of weeks—we knew something like this was going to happen."

COULDN'T ACT

His brother, Charn Sangha, 24, an eyewitness to the cookhouse attack, said, "That's right—we asked the police and they said they couldn't do anything until he did something."

Said the elder Sangha, "I was eating in the cookhouse and he came in with a knife—it was in his right hand.

"I didn't do anything to him so I wasn't worried—then as I looked at the knife he hit me hard on the nose with his left hand.

CUT ARM

"I got hold of his right hand but he bent the knife in and cut my right arm near the elbow.

"He has been miserable — tonight he just went wild."

He said he had seen his attacker in an argument in the afternon before the man left camp temporarily.

"He came back about six swearing at everybody. He got the knife from his room and came into the cookhouse."

SCARED OFF

Witnesses said Sangha was struggling with his attacker when his younger brother shouted and scared the man off.

Jagir Hayer accosted the knife-wielder outside the cookhouse and was slashed on the neck and back.

Camp foreman Kabal Sall received cuts in the hands when he disarmed the man a few seconds later.

Still in hospital last night, Hayer and Sangha were reported in good condition.

ALBERNI — Alderman Thomas S. Barnett, completing his first two-year term on Alberni council, has announced that he will seek re-election this year.

So far no nomination papers have been taken from Alberni city hall.

Terms of Aldermen Barnett, Fred Bishop and Gordon Lundine expire at the end of this year.

In Port Alberni there are three vacancies as a result of the expiration of terms of Aldermen William Goddard, Robert Dalton and Jack Perry.

SERVANTS SLASH TIES WITH LABOR

Political Issue Severs Bonds

The 1,800-member Victoria branch of the B.C. Government Employees' Association has finally broken its ties with organized labor over the issue of political action.

Formal action to end its affiliation with Victoria Labor Council was taken last night by labor delegates at the request of the local BCGEA branch.

REASON FOR BREAK

The reason given for the break was the Nov. 2 decision by VLC delegates to form a political action group to assist labor candidates in the forthcoming civic elections and in the federal byelection in Esquimalt-Saanich.

Civil servants' local membership approved a resolution which said "in our opinion (this) commits Victoria Labor Council to direct political action, which is against our constitution, therefore this branch should disaffiliate."

EXTREME RELUCTANCE

An accompanying letter, signed by branch secretary J. A. Hawes said: "It is with extreme reluctance that we take this action."

VLC secretary-treasurer A. W. Toone told delegates "it would appear the local BCGEA branch executive more or less had made their minds up on this matter . . . they didn't wish to have a delegate or officer of this council discuss the situation with them before final action was taken."

EVERYTHING IN POWER

He said BCGEA delegates to the local council did everything in their power to maintain the tie with organized labor.

Recently, after the government stopped check-off of BCGEA dues from the payroll, the association's provincial officials requested temporary suspension of per capita dues to the labor group until a vote was taken among the membership.

These are the kind of stately timbers which skirt Kennedy River and the west coast road to Tofino, and which only an immediate public outcry can save from the loggers' power saws.

Loggers Rush To Ruin Drive

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Outdoors Editor

It is too late to save all the timber that stands in narrow strips along the Kennedy River on the west coast road from Tofino.

The loggers have felled a lot of it in recent weeks and appear to be chopping away at it in mad haste before the public and government realize one of North America's greatest potential scenic drives is being ruined.

But, there is still time to save some of it.

OUTCRY NEEDED

The loggers' power saws have felled much of the timber along the roadside and river banks, but there is still some left and only a public outcry . . . and a very early one at that . . . can save the rest of the stately timber, as the logging companies are pushing relentlessly on.

It is true MacMillan and Bloedel owns the timber through timber licences and that the Crown owns the land, but surely some exchanges or arrangements can be made to save these narrow strips of timber along the river banks which add so much to the scenic west coast drive. Not too much actual timber is involved.

★ ★ ★

★ ★ ★

For 23 miles the west coast road follows the Taylor and Upper Kennedy Rivers, sometimes 100 yards from it, sometimes 50 yards and sometimes only a stone's throw away. The road was, and still is, in parts, skirted by stately cedars, the like of which the public now seldom has an opportunity to see. It is like a narrow Cathedral Grove for miles and miles.

UNPARALLELED

The scenic quality of the drive surely is unparalleled on this continent . . . and it is being spoiled, largely because of the inaction of the government, specifically Forests Minister Ray Williston and Recreation Minister Earle Westwood, to take some action to preserve the roadside timber strips.

They were warned by this paper, and personally by others. Recently Premier Bennett called on Ottawa for a joint five-year program to blacktop the west coast road. At the same time as he was proposing this wonderful program, two of his ministers were allowing the scenic value of the road to be despoiled.

On July 3 an article in this paper read, in part: "The road gives terrific vistas of all four arms of Sproat Lake and follows Taylor and Kennedy Rivers for miles. Tall, stately cedars and Douglas firs straddle the road and maples hang over the river banks.

"There are waterfalls, clear deep green pools right beside the road, and fast-running rapids. It was obvious to us that the government must try to acquire all the strips of land between the roadway and the rivers. These for the most part are narrow, but would provide an almost unbroken chain of scenic spots."

It was heartrending to drive out over that road last Sunday and see the desecration had already started.

PARK RESERVE

The provincial recreation department already has a three-mile park reserve along the Upper Kennedy River, which skirts both sides of the road, but unfortunately lack of foresight saw logging operations take place along the road through this reserve, and much, although not all, of the scenic quality, apparent in the other areas, has already been destroyed in the parkland.

Our Sunday drive showed that in some areas the logging company is leaving a one or two-tree strip along the riverbank which preserves some beauty, but in other areas it was taking all the logs.

Nixon Wins California

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The certain margin by which Sen. John Kennedy won the U.S. presidency was slashed last night to 31 electoral votes when a surge of absentee ballots put Vice-president Nixon ahead in his native California.

Nixon, 35,270 votes behind when California began its count of more than 200,000 absentee ballots last weekend, went ahead by 13,160 with 20,000 left to count.

Shun Politics Or Risk Job —Lindsay

By PETER BRUTON

A senior provincial civil servant startled a cabinet luncheon honoring himself and his colleagues yesterday with a blunt warning that government employees were risking their jobs if they didn't steer clear of politics.

George Lindsay, B.C. superintendent of motor vehicles, used the recent U.S. and Quebec provincial elections as examples of what could happen here.

50-60 PER CENT

"The so-called civil service of those governments, and there are others, had entertained the propositions of the body politic," he said. "On the defeat of their party there were over 50 to 60 per cent discharged from the service."

He asked his colleagues to warn their "juniors" that the advantage of B.C.'s civil servants were great compared with what others were receiving elsewhere.

NOT FOR MOMENT

"Let us not for one moment give consideration to other than our loyalty to the government which I believe is just at all times," he said.

Mr. Lindsay made his remarks during a speech of thanks to Premier Bennett and the cabinet for tendering a luncheon to 30 civil servants from Vancouver Island who had served the government for more than 25 years.

IN JEOPARDY

Mr. Lindsay said after comparing what B.C. civil servants receive in benefits from the government "and what little" other government employees elsewhere in North America receive he was concerned that "we in the civil service are placing ourselves in jeopardy."

There was a danger that they would lose the recognition and advantages won over a number of years, he said.

Mr. Lindsay said the future of B.C. was bright and that he hoped "each of you will make this proposition clear to your juniors."

White Mob Runs Wild

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—A mob of 5,000 persons, mostly teen-agers fired up by mothers and segregationist leaders, ran wild in downtown New Orleans yesterday. Police turned fire hoses on them and charged into them with motorcycles.

The demonstration was set off by the call of segregationists for a "civil disobedience" campaign against the integration of two formerly all-white elementary schools by four six-year-old Negro girls.

STINGING HOSES

After an hour of being drenched by the stinging hoses and dodging three-wheeled motorcycles, the mob broke up into knots of demonstrators who roamed about stoning buses and cars in which Negroes were riding.

Police seized more than 35 demonstrators and hauled them off to headquarters. They were immediately "paroled" and went back.

SCHOOLS EMPTIED

The deep-running feeling against integration almost emptied the two schools. A total of 21 white pupils attended the schools Wednesday. Normal white attendance totals 1,043.

Police had to pull down their guard from the schools to fight the mob a few blocks away. The mob, screaming and waving Confederate flags, marched on the school board.

"Two, four, six, eight, we don't wanna integrate," the mob roared. Firemen broke out the hoses and a public address system warned the crowd to break up or be hosed down.

"Turn on the water, turn on the water," ringleaders screamed, advancing on the truck. The firemen did.

Tree Crash Crumples Sailor's Car

A car was demolished against a tree beside Esquimalt Road early this morning and its lone unconscious occupant rushed to HMCS Naden Hospital by Esquimalt police.

The driver was identified as LS Majella Arsenault, HMCS Ste. Therese.

The 1958 Pontiac, which apparently skidded on wet pavement about 12:30 a.m., hurtled sideways against the trunk of large tree some 12 feet from the road.

It was crumpled like a wad of paper, with the passenger side of the car body wrapped around the tree.

CLARK GABLE

Clark Gable Dies at 59

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Clark Gable, the "king" of Hollywood, died last night at the age of 59.

The strapping he-man with the big grin and big ears had been one of the greatest movie idols the world has ever known from the time he became a star in the early 1930s.

He suffered a heart attack Nov. 6 at his Encino home and was taken to hospital for an extended rest after emergency treatment. His wife Kay is expecting his first child early next year.

"Death was painless," Gable's doctors said. Mrs. Gable was with him when the last attack came at 11 p.m. See also Page 21.

Teller Stole to Meet Ailing Mother's Bills

HAMILTON, Ont. (UPI) — A tearful, 21-year-old former bank teller testified yesterday that she embezzled $7,750 from her bank to pay her mother's hospital bills.

The ex-teller, Darlene Burns, was remanded to jail for sentence for stealing the money from the Toronto-Dominion Bank over a three-year period.

Her mother, Mrs. Gordon Burns, who walks with the aid of two canes, also wept and had to be assisted from the courtroom.

Magistrate Walter Tuchtie remanded the woman after defence counsel John Sullivan pleaded: "Please temper justice with mercy."

Harry Crawford, manager of the bank branch, said Miss Burns confessed before auditors turned up the shortages.

A psychiatrist, Dr. Harvey Blair, testified that the young woman had been handling the family's finances since the age of 12 when she first started working, selling fruit.

Before the hearing Miss Burns had been free on $5,000 bail.

Dr. Blair said she had a "terrible fear" of being imprisoned.

Attack Starts on B.C. Sunday Jobs

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Lord's Day Alliance plans a probe into work on Sundays in business and industry.

Rev. H. T. Allen, head of the Alliance in B.C., says main targets will include pulp mills and pipeline companies going seven days a week.

Aim of the province-wide probe was to wipe out all unnecessary work on Sundays, if necessary through court action. A committee of labor, business and industrial officials was being formed to conduct the investigation.

"We'll seek ways to eliminate unnecessary work, possibly by recommending extra shifts be hired to get the work done during the week," said Mr. Allen.

The Lord's Day Act forbids all Sunday work except that needed for public protection or essential services.

Mr. Allen charged management resorts to a form of bribery in offering extra pay to workers to overcome their unwillingness to work Sundays.
